The Greek 'Oikoumene'

The old Greeks had the word, "oikoumene." It meant "to inhabit." From it they had the word "oikhos" for house.

Today, the eyes of much of the Christian world are turned toward Evanston, Illinois, where the old Greek word crops up again as "ecumenical."

Delegates from all over the world are in session there in the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches. It will debate and discuss the ecumenical movement. (The dictionary defines the word as meaning universal, or worldwide. This meaning is disputed. There are already many churches which legitimately describe themselves as "catholic." It would come as a shock to many Protestants to inspect their church creed and find it described as catholic or universal. The Roman Catholic, Episcopalian, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Baptist churches are, for example, catholic churches, being world wide. Many persons have a catholic appetite for food or literature.)

The ecumenicalists have made the word apply to a movement to bring together as many as possible of the world's great Christian churches.

Members

There are 161 member churches of the World Council of Churches. This includes most of the major Protestant denominations, and all the orthodox faiths save two, the Roman Catholic and the Patriarchate of Moscow—the Russian Orthodox. The door, the Council continually announces, is left open for them and others.

Thirty-two American churches are members. Notable among the absent are Jehovah's Witnesses, the Southern Baptists, Mormons, Christian Scientists, Missouri Synod Lutherans, and Unitarians.

World Assemblies are held every five years, on a "turn about" schedule, in the 48 countries with member churches. Hence, the meeting at Evanston is likely the only one which will be held in the United States within the lifetime of any person now living.

It is, in truth, a tremendously important meeting. It begins in controversy and likely will end in it. But, it does have this to its credit. More and more persons now believe that somehow or other all the Christian faith must find a mechanism for joint action in behalf of the New Testament.

The rest of the year will echo the meeting. Many of the visiting pastors from 47 other nations will remain in the United States for months to come to fill preaching engagements extended them from churches over the nation.

There are 600 official delegates, chosen by the member churches. Of these 175 are from the United States. In addition there are 600 non-voting observer-delegates, 150 consultants and an unannounced number of delegates from friendly, or curious religious organizations not affiliated.

Coverage

The Council desires, and has sought, the widest possible coverage. Four hundred newspapermen, including correspondents from 38 of the 48 member nations, will be present. Some 48 radio and television announcers and commentators are covering the meeting. The Festival of Faith, at Soldier Field, Chicago, attracted more than 100,000 persons.

Says Ike Favored Bobby Jones on Atom Power Pact

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell declared today President Eisenhower personally ordered the award of a contract to a syndicate in which one of the President's "closest friends" has an interest.

He said the contract was for providing electrical power for a new atomic energy plant at Paducah, Ky., and was 90 million dollars higher than that offered by a rival syndicate and 140 millions more than TVA would require to supply the power.

SUGGESTS PROBE

Mitchell said the President's role in the atomic power controversy "is something that really needs investigating."

The Democratic party leader did not identify the friend, but his office later said he referred to golfer Bobby Jones.

In Washington, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said he had no comment to make on Mitchell's charge.

At his home in Atlanta, Jones said Mitchell's remarks "are utterly ridiculous and without foundation."

The proposal to build the generating plant in question was made by two utility groups. One is the Middle South and the other is the Southern Co. Jones said he had a very small number of shares in the Southern Co.

AROSE IN DEBATE

The issue came up during a debate between Mitchell and Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall before the insurance section of the American Bar Assn.

In reply to Mitchell's statement, Hall told the lawyers:

"When Mr. Mitchell says by implication that President Eisenhower is doing favors for his neighbors, to the detriment of the country's welfare, I believe that the American people will rise up and condemn such an unwarranted attack."

In commenting on his remarks later, Mitchell emphasized his statement on the needs for an investigation did not refer directly

FBI Probing Phenix, Aiken Girl Traffic

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Aug. 16 (AP)—Federal authorities have been called in to investigate an interstate prostitution racket here and in Aiken County, S. C., where a fast hydrogen bomb plant is located, it was reported tonight.

Authorities were looking for a Phenix City bartender who allegedly had been taking former bar girls and prostitutes to the vicinity of the super-secret H-bomb plant.

It was reported that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had ordered his agents to step into Aiken County to "clean up."

The probe opened here last night with the arrest of six B-girls, several bartenders and saloon keepers.

E. V. Boone, 44-year-old ro-tund operator of Boone's Cafe on 14th street here, was jailed and held for further investigation, authorities said.

This city's tough military boss, State Adj. Gen. Walter J. (Crack) Hanna, confirmed reports that a number of girls had been taken to the South Carolina H-bomb plant area and installed in trailers where they continued their illicit practice.

The women arrested here, all in their early 20s, were questioned at county jail at length and at least three of them remained in county jail tonight.

GEA Asks for 848 New Teachers; School Board Insists 'No Funds'

By MARJORY SMITH

Spokesmen for the Georgia Education Assn. Monday asked the State Board of Education for funds to pay an additional 848 teachers the GEA says are vitally needed to take care of Georgia's overflowing 1954 crop of school children. Board Chairman George P. Whitman Jr. told the GEA group no funds are available, but agreed to go with GEA President Paul Sprayberry and other GEA and board representatives before the Budget Bureau later this week to present the GEA's case.

Whitman was critical Monday of the "spirit in which the GEA comes before us." Earlier in the meeting Whitman scored gubernatorial

Sizzling 102 Sets August Record Here

Mercury Hits 104 in Macon

Atlanta's heat wave produced a record-breaking 102 degrees Monday, the highest temperature for August in the 75 years weather records have been kept here.

The precedent-smashing temperature was recorded at 3:20 p.m. at the Weather Bureau as the rest of the state also baked.

Forecasters said there is no relief in sight, and predicted a high of 100 degrees Tuesday, starting from a low of 77. Wednesday's predicted high is 98.

The previous August record was set on Aug. 7, 1935, when the mercury pushed to 101.9 degrees.

2ND RECORD

Monday was the second straight day in which an August

| HOURLY TEMPERATURES |    |        |     |
|---------------------|----|--------|-----|
| 6 a.m.              | 77 | 3 p.m. | 99  |
| 7 a.m.              | 79 | 4 p.m. | 101 |
| 8 a.m.              | 84 | 5 p.m. | 102 |
| 9 a.m.              | 88 | 6 p.m. | 102 |
| 10 a.m.             | 92 | 7 p.m. | 100 |
| 11 a.m.             | 95 | 8 p.m. | 98  |
| 12 Noon             | 97 | 9 p.m. | 98  |

heat record was set. Sunday's 97-degree high was the highest in 75 years for an Aug. 15 date, the Weather Bureau pointed out.

Savannah and Columbus reported 100-degree temperatures. Brunswick, however, checked in with a comparatively cool high of 90.

Searing heat rose to high levels in Southern states Monday with the peak of 105 recorded at Anderson, S. C., Little Rock, Ark., and Muscle Shoals, Ala. Close behind was Macon with 104. Augusta registered 103 and Rome 101.

An exception was Chicago, where a high of 73 degrees was reported.

DANGER TO FORESTS

The extreme heat underscored the danger of forest fires, according to Guyton DeLoach, director of the Georgia Forestry Commission. He said the dry and hot condition presented a danger to southeast Georgia and a few more hot and rainless days could create a critical condition in north Georgia also.

Since last Thursday, 18 fires have broken out in Clinch County, damaging a total of 1,700 acres. All but two of the fires were started by lightning.

DeLoach also said that the mimosa wilt which has been killing the trees recently was not due to the drought, but that hot, dry weather seems to aggravate the disease.

Coffee Prices Take 1st Dip In 8 Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—Coffee prices were cut for the first time in more than eight months today, with reductions ranging from two to 10 cents a pound on the wholesale market.

Housewives were promised the benefits of the reduction by mid-September.

The cuts came as the result of new currency regulations in Brazil, which supplies Americans with half the 2,600,000,000 pounds of coffee consumed in the United States every year.

The biggest cut was announced by Martinson's Coffee Co., whose product has sold for as much as $1.50 a pound in recent months. Martinson's said they were cutting their price by 10 cents a pound.

Other cuts of two cents and five cents were revealed, fulfilling the expectations of Brazilian coffee growers.

Added to the escapades, police said, were 24 cars that were moved in the Oakland City section.

2 Electrocuted Working on Georgia Bridge

RICHLAND, Aug. 16 (AP)—Two men were electrocuted and a third was injured while working on a U.S. Highway 280 bridge between here and Preston today.

Dead are Ralph Carter, 29, of Richland, and Echo Dyou, a Richland Negro. The injured man, Leroy Jowers, a Preston Negro, is in Stewart-Webster hospital here.

Webster County Sheriff A. R. Johnson said workers were busy pulling timber off the roadway with a cable when the cable came in contact with a power line.

Oil Stocks Lead Rise Of $3 to $5 a Share

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—The stock market pushed through to a new high since Oct. 22, 1929, today under leadership of the oil stocks. Advances ranged to $3 to $5 at the best.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed at a 25-year high at $134.70, up $1.10. Volume totaled 2,760,000 shares.

House Votes To Strip Communist Party in Compromise to Ike

Wins 305-2; Not as Stiff As Senate's

By MILTON MAGRUDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The House today passed, 305 to 2, a compromise bill which would strip the Communist Party of all its rights and privileges but would not outlaw membership.

Voting against it were Reps. Usher L. Burdick (R-ND) and Abraham J. Multer (D-NY).

The measure is far less drastic than the one passed last week by the Senate. The Senate bill would make membership in the party a crime.

The House version was based on an agreement reached earlier today between President Eisenhower and his Republican congressional leaders.

IKE HAD OBJECTED

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) told reporters it was acceptable to Eisenhower and his legal advisers. They had objected to the Senate version on the ground it would "scuttle" Communist-control bills already on the statute books.

Multer, who said he is opposed to outlawing any party, called it "an utterly un-American procedure to let passions of the moment whittle away at our liberties."

Burdick, in a formal statement, said Congress "is treading on dangerous ground" when it tries to outlaw "what many may think."

Martin said the compromise is aimed at the Communist Party "as a political organization and not at Reds as individuals."

BAR TO ELECTIONS

It would strip the party of its legal rights, including the privilege of entering candidates in political elections, and the right to sue in court.

The administration feared the sterner Senate legislation would have made martyrs of party members and caused individual Reds to resort even further to underground activities.

The House bill retains the Senate's preamble branding the Communist Party an "instrumentality of a conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States."

STRIPS 'FRONTS'

On one point it goes even further than the Senate bill by providing that party subsidiaries, or "fronts," also shall be stripped of whatever rights, privileges and immunities they have enjoyed under U.S. laws.

But the House omitted a controversial provision imposing stiff jail terms and fines on anyone who belongs to the party and performs an "overt act" in its behalf.

Both measures would deny government bargaining services to any labor union or business firms or groups which are found by the Subversive Activities Control Board to be "Communist-infiltrated."

Driver Nears Rind

DES MOINES, Aug. 16 (AP)—Wayne M. Murrow of nearby Bon-durant was fined $50 here Monday after Patrolman W. B. Sawhill advised the court Murrow was eating watermelon as he drove at speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

WRECK FATAL TO THREE PERSONS—GRAYSON, Aug. 16—Three persons were killed and three others seriously injured Monday when an automobile crashed into the side of a tractor-trailer truck two miles south of here, State Trooper C. ## Boys Pull Crime Spree After TV 'Inspiration'

With high adventure and more than a touch of larceny in their young hearts, three Atlanta boys—ages 10, 12 and 14—kept Atlanta police on the run over the weekend. The boys said they'd learned lessons in crime from television and police said they'd learned them well.

"Blackie's TV Gang," they called themselves, and all they really wanted to do was to go to California. They were sidetracked indefinitely Monday at the Fulton Juvenile Detention Home after the youngest member of the gang asked police for help.

The record they left behind in three days of practicing what they saw on TV:

Four burglaries, vandalism, larceny, auto theft and an attempted safe cracking.

TIME FOR MOVIE

Blackie, 14, and his 12-year-old friend managed to sandwich in "an evening at the show with girl friends"—financed by $6 police said was taken from a piggy bank in a West End rooming house.

Ringleader Blackie had the explanation for everything: "We saw it all on television..."

The boys broke into the Moxley Park Clubhouse Friday night, got 134 pennies, candy and long black cigars for Blackie.

More candy, chewing gum and cigars were added to the loot Saturday when they broke into Oakland City clubhouse.

PICKED UP GLOVES

Then they picked up gloves—"to keep from leaving fingerprints"—and went to work trying to crack a safe at 1325 White St., S.W. "We meant to buy a motor scooter and head for California," Blackie said.

Across the street they broke into a railway shop and tried to steal an electric crew car for the trip. It wouldn't budge. They set it afire.

They tried the safe unsuccessfully but at great length again Sunday, gave up, stole a truck and rammed it into a fence.

Added to the escapades, police said, were 24 cars that were moved in the Oakland City section.

Atom Bill Is Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—

The Senate tonight passed and sent to the House a new compromise atomic bill bowing to Democratic demands for protection of public power interests.

The roll call vote was announced as 59 to 17.

The bill was passed with only 17 minutes of debate after Senate-House conferees accepted the chief provisions demanded by Senate Democrats.

FEE BASIS

These included agreement to force private firms to share atomic inventions on a fee basis with other firms. The conferees put a five-year limit on the patent provision, instead of the 10 years the Senate recommended. President Eisenhower had asked for the five-year provision.

The conferees also agreed not to give the Atomic Energy Commission any discretion in granting public bodies "preference" on distribution of atomic power. Democratic foes of an earlier compromise bill said three words it included—"insofar as practicable"—meant the AEC could deny the long-established practice of giving public power groups.

GRANTS REQUEST

The bill generally grants Mr. Eisenhower's request to open up the field of atomic energy for private power development, and to permit greater sharing of atomic secrets with America's allies. It also opens the way to a start on the President's atom-for-peace plan.

It also authorizes the controversial administration "Dixon-Yates" plan to have the Atomic Energy Commission buy power from a private power combine through the agency of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Ike Signs Tax Measure; George Belittles Effect

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed into law a $1,363,000,000 tax revision bill, bringing to $7,400,000,000 the total tax relief granted U.S. taxpayers since last Jan. 1.

Calling it a "good law," that will help millions of taxpayers, Mr. Eisenhower said "it will benefit all Americans. . . . It will help our people produce better goods at cheaper prices. . . . It will help to create more jobs."

But Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), who led an unsuccessful Senate fight for across-the-board income tax cuts, said the new law was "nothing to be bragging about" because it will not aid the average taxpayer.

George also told the Senate the Democrats should get most of the credit for tax reductions earlier this year because they

Lamont Among 3 Cited For Contempt by Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Senate today cited three witnesses, including wealthy New Yorker Corliss Lamont, for contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions before Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's investigating subcommittee.

Each of the contempt citations was opposed by Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), Sens. William Langer (R-ND) and Dennis Chavez (D-NM) opposed the Lamont citation.

McCarthy accused Lehman of "using Communist jargon" to oppose the contempt moves against Albert Shadowitz and Abraham Unger, both of New York.

Lehman argued the cases should be delayed until the Supreme Court acts on a previous contempt of Congress case.

Langer opposed the Lamont citation on grounds the wealthy New Yorker had not had a chance to be heard. He said he was fighting for Lamont's rights as a "person."

McCarthy said Lamont had refused to answer a "vast number" of questions on possible Communist activities. But Lamont denied under oath he had ever been a member of the Communist party. He refused to answer other questions on grounds McCarthy's permanent investigating subcommittee had no right to ask them.

None of the three took refuge in the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer McCarthy's questions.

Vote Jan. 5 Convening

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The House unanimously approved and sent to the Senate today a bill providing for the convening of the next Congress on Jan. 5, 1955. The constitution fixes the date as Jan. 3 each year unless otherwise specified.

Dutch Rap Paris Shifts For EDC

Snag Shapes Up On Eve of Parley

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Netherlands today vigorously opposed changes proposed by France for the European Defense Community treaty, and a Dutch government spokesman indicated its Benelux partners, Belgium and Luxembourg, would do likewise.

A grave deadlock seemed to be taking shape on the eve of a showdown meeting of the six EDC nations in Brussels.

FRENCH POSITION

The Dutch said they could not see how agreement could be reached at the Brussels meeting on the basis of the French proposals. But in Bonn, Germany, an official of the French High Commission insisted:

"There is no possibility the French National Assembly will ratify the European army treaty if the French proposal is rejected. Therefore, a rejection of the French proposals probably will mean there will be no European army."

The Brussels meeting opens Thursday. There French Premier Pierre Mendes-France will argue his case before the other five members of the EDC. Less than two weeks hence, the French National Assembly is scheduled to debate ratification of the treaty. West Germany and the Benelux nations have ratified the treaty. Italy and France have not and the latter is the key to its fate in its present form.

BOON SILENT

German authorities, awaiting Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's return from vacation for a Cabinet meeting in Bonn tomorrow, maintained official silence on specific points of the French proposals.

In Washington, the United States expressed official opposition to France's amendments. Top United States officials were understood to contend that the amendments might kill the whole European army plan or so weaken it that it would be virtually useless.

Match Starts '06 Car As Pilot Light Quits

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—All Paul J. Tusek needed today was a match to start his stalled car—a 1906 Stanley Steamer.

Paul's car was in a motorcade of ancient autos making the journey from Fort Lee, N. J., to Times Square to publicize the 10-car American team which sails Aug. 20 for an Anglo-American vintage vehicle meet in England.

A Stanley Steamer won't steam without a pilot light—which failed. But one match later Tusek was on his way. Tusek, incidentally, hails from Power Point, Ohio.

Portuguese Rout Raiders From Fort

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 16 (AP)—Portuguese forces today shelled and recaptured the fortress of Tiracol from Goan Nationalists who seized it yesterday as part of a campaign to merge Portugal's enclaves on the sub-continent with India, press reports here said.

The New Delhi newspaper Statesman said the Portuguese forces steamed up the Tiracol River in a cruiser and bombarded the fortress for 90 minutes before sending a landing party of 120 men ashore in steam launches to take down the Indian tricolor and raise once again the flag of Portugal.

The report did not mention damage or casualties.

Part of the landing force entered the old fortress while the rest guarded the entrances, the report said.

Seizure of the historic fortress yesterday by Goan Nationalist "volunteers" was the only successful feat of a long-heralded march on the territory of Goa and other Portuguese enclaves in India. Other marches on the territory fizzled, and the small groups of demonstrators—many of them teenagers and unemployed persons from Bombay—were easily picked up and jailed by Goan police.

Although many furs come from the tropics, the largest modern supplies come from cold climates.

Pilot Talks to Resume Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—Mediation talks aimed at ending the 18-day-old American Airlines Pilots' strike recessed tonight after "exploratory" discussions.

Another meeting of the company and AFL Airline Pilots Assn. was scheduled for tomorrow. A National Mediation Board official said tonight's session was "purely exploratory so far" and no agreement was reached on any of the issues in dispute.

Informed sources indicated no progress was made in the four-hour talks. But they raised hope that the renewed mediation effort will lead to a settlement of the lengthy dispute, that has grounded American's 970 daily flights and forced suspension of 2,000 employees.

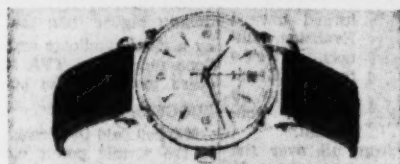

There were prospects that, unless the strike is settled, all 16,000 of the firm's employees would be laid off in another two weeks.

Large Family Dining Table Built Discipline, Teacher Says

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—A teacher bemoaned today the passing of the American dining room with its large family table. It helped curb juvenile delinquency, she said.

"The catch-as-catch-can food supply for youth, from can to stove to gulp down, or perhaps from icebox directly down, is a part of the loss of family discipline," said Miss Selma Borchardt, of Washington, D.C., in an address to members of the American Federation of Teachers (AFL).

"Teachers wish that parents could have more time together with their children, as a family. We believe it would reduce the school discipline problem."

Miss Borchardt, the federation's vice president and legislative representative, said that increased federal aid to education and implementation of the U.S. Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation are the most critical needs of democracy.

Ohio Doctor Gets Bail in Slaying Case

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 16 (AP)—Temporary freedom was won today for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, the 30-year-old osteopath who has been under arrest on a first-degree murder warrant for the Fourth of July bludgeoning killing of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

The handsome, square-faced surgeon was released on $50,000 bail when Cuyahoga (Cleveland) County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan asked that a preliminary hearing before Common Pleas Judge William K. Thomas be postponed. It will be held Wednesday.

LEAVES JAIL

STEERS CASE

Cullitan asked for the postponement as he steered the case to a nine-woman and six-man grand jury to bypass the hearing.

Judge Thomas' decision to allow bail came as a surprise to William Corrigan, Dr. Sheppard's attorney, who said that though he always asked for bail in first-degree murder cases... "it was never granted."

Judge Thomas, after listening to arguments from Corrigan that bail should be set, and from the prosecution that it should not, decided that "I do not pass on the question of innocence, or guilt, but merely on what evidence has been presented here. I find no evidence. Having in mind that this is an American court, operating under our Constitution and our Bill of Rights, I grant this application (for bail)."

NO HAPPINESS

Corrigan told reporters his client, despite his new-found freedom... "has nothing to be happy about. He has lost his wife and unborn child. He hasn't seen his child (Chip, 7) for some time. What does he have to be happy about?"

Dr. Sheppard, who broke down and wept when bail was granted, left Criminal Courts Building with his brother, Dr. Richard Sheppard, who drove him the 15 miles to suburban Bay Village to the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Richard A. Sheppard. He said he planned "to get around to see my patients."

While the dramatic, if brief, release of Dr. Sheppard was gained,

Christianity Spread Is Held More Vital Than Atom Plans

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 16 (AP)—The necessity of spreading Christianity throughout the world is more urgent than development of defenses against the hydrogen bomb, delegates to the second assembly of the World Council of Churches were told tonight.

The assembly devoted its first plenary business session to problems of evangelism.

Earlier, two council leaders said that Christian churches, through their fellowship in Jesus Christ, can help ease tension between eastern and western nations.

The speakers were the Right Rev. G. K. A. Bell, Anglican Bishop of Chichester, England, and Dr. W. A. Visser 'T Hooft, the council's general secretary.

At tonight's session on evangelism, held on the Northwestern University campus, two speakers urged a crusading spirit. The Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, canon of Washington, D. C., Cathedral, and the Rev. Daniel T. Niles, area evangelist of the Methodist Church in Ceylon, spoke at the meeting.

GEORGIA NEWS

State's 1st Black Marble Being Quarried in Gordon

The first commercial quarrying of black marble in Georgia and probably the first in the United States is under way at Ranger in Gordon County.

The vein, recently discovered by H. Fain Hamrick on his property near Liberty Church, is under option by a Columbus, Ohio, firm. The first slabs will be on the market in about three months.

The Ranger black marble quarry is the only one that Garland Peyton, state geologist, knows about in the country.

Most black marble now used is Italian, he said. The mineral will go into such things as desk tops, wainscoting, sculpture and mantelpieces.

Extending south from Chatsworth, the vein was discovered by Hamrick while he was looking for fluorides. The Ohio firm has an option on 100 acres of his property and a lease on the J. W. Evans farm nearby.

The color of the marble is due to petroleum deposits in the stone, Peyton said. Extreme heat would turn the mineral gray.

Experimental holes have been drilled into the vein to a depth of 96 feet. Four squares, 3 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 6 feet, weighing eight tons each, were shipped to Columbus for testing. The mineral proved extremely hard and took a high luster. Streaks of white (calcite) run through the black.

Loose Snake Spices Fair In Towns

By CELESTINE SIBLEY
Constitution Staff Writer

HIWASSEE, Aug. 16—Georgia's hill country went to the fair here Monday—an old-fashioned country-styled fair—which started off in a high pitch of excitement with a snake loose in the exhibit hall. And it promised to become more exciting before the week ends with foreign visitors, flower shows, livestock and hound dog competition.

Farm women hauling their fancy work, preserves and beloved antiques to the Towns County High School gym, moved cautiously throughout the day Monday on the lookout for "Herbert," the Wildlife Service's blacksnake which escaped from his cage sometime Sunday night.

"We think some curious fellows got in the wildlife section in the old school building Sunday night and accidentally let the snake out," said Mrs. E. N. Nicholson, Georgia Mountain Fair secretary.

Meanwhile, exhibitors from all over north Georgia and several neighboring states continued to set up what is expected to be the handsomest and most comprehensive Mountain Fair in history.

Entries in the various farm crops and products division are to be judged early Tuesday morning. Tuesday is also flower day, featuring dahlias produced by Alvin Todd, prize-winning mountain dahlia grower.

Fourteen visiting Extension Service workers from Thailand, Brazil, the Philippines and Nationalist China, will be special guests of the fair association Tuesday.

Congress Lifts Debt Line; Close Seen by Weekend

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16—Congress agreed today to raise the national debt limit by $6 billion and pressed on doggedly in other legislative areas with the last of the Eisenhower program.

A session that was to close on July 31 had gone past mid-August, but it appeared that the close might now come by the end of this week.

The Republican congressional leaders left the White House this morning after their weekly consultation with the President with this hope in mind.

In a scene of rising fatigue in a city of rising heat and near the end of a congressional year that veteran Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia called the most exacting in his 32 years here, these were the day's principal accomplishments:

1. The House accepted without change a Senate bill to authorize the President to let the government go into debt by $6 billion beyond the present legal ceiling of $275 billion.

2. The Senate tonight passed an omnibus anti-subversive measure tightening up the present sabotage laws, providing possible death for peacetime spying and requiring registration of all persons trained in espionage or sabotage by a foreign government or foreign political party.

3. Conference committees agreed on a compromise farm subsidy bill that will knock out rigid price supports of 90 per cent of parity on the basic commodities and substitute sliding supports ranging from 82 1/4 to 90 per cent of parity.

4. The House by vote of 305 to 2, passed a bill outlawing the Communist Party as conspiratorial but not going so far as the Senate had gone in making individual party membership a crime.

Our slip's showing!

One of Davison's exuberant copywriters, intent on putting the zip and zing of Autumn into an ad on late-July dresses, glibly tossed this line to her typewriter: "as Fall as maple sugar." And that's how it came out in the Journal magazine of July 20th, in cold, black, irrevocable print. Didn't seem to stop the hundreds of customers who showed up to buy the dresses. But Mrs. Margery Van Court, of Athens, Georgia, promptly called our hand in this delightful, sugar-coated correction:

Dear Davison's:

I lived in the maple sugar-producing section of New York state for four years before crossing the Macy-Dixie line to live in (thrice saluted) Georgia, and I have it from the very best maple trees that maple sugar is strictly a Spring product. The season usually starts in March, or whenever things start warming up. Preferred weather is freezing nights with warm days, for the thaw each day makes the sap rush upward through the trees—and out through little spigots with which farmers tap the trees. That's when the sap's 'runnin'! For further information I refer you to the Vermont State Chamber of Commerce.

P. S.—Our deepest apologies to the maple trees and the Vermont C. of C. And much obliged to you, Ma'am, for putting us right on just when the sap rises!

Thumbs up, girls!

The venerable, beat-up truck, its rear end heaped high with corn, tomatoes and watermelons, wheeled to a stop at our Peachtree entrance last Friday morning. Oncoming traffic piled up clear to the Henry Grady; irate drivers sat on their horns; the traffic officer let go with a raucous blast on his whistle. Meantime, oblivious to all the ruckus, an ample, stylishly turned-out matron stepped down from the truck. She waved a blithe goodbye to the sun-tanned young man in the driver's seat and made a stately progress into the store. She told our girl at the hosiery counter: "My car wouldn't start, so I thumbed a ride with the vegetable man—just had to get to Davison's!" That's the old pioneer spirit, Ma'am. Bet your folks blazed that trail West in a Conestoga wagon!

Real Gone . . . but not forgotten

Keeping up with the latest teen-age jive is like trying to catch a runaway roller-coaster. No sooner were we hep to "real-gone guy" when up comes "cool crazy cat" (meaning, we hear, a really gone guy and a sharp dresser). Well, we saw one the other noontime on Davison's Street Floor. A cool, crazy cat if ever there was one. Indubitably! This lanky six-foot character wore all the standard equipment: the latest flop-mop haircut, jeans at half mast on his snaky hips, white shirt with rolled-high sleeves. And dig this! Curled round his neck like a fur piece was a real, live, baby-blue-eyed Siamese kitten! Shucks, Son, you'd have walked off with the 'cool crazy' sweepstakes even without that real live 'prop.'

Hand Wins Support On Ability, Record

To be sure, Mr. Marvin Griffin may charge that the Savannah Morning News, the Marietta Journal and the LaGrange Daily News, are threatening the Southern way of life, but the fact remains they nonetheless have joined other newspapers in support of Fred Hand, for the gubernatorial nomination.

They want no part of Mr. Griffin or Mr. Thompson.

They support Fred Hand because, as the Savannah newspaper says in an editorial reprinted on this page, he has pledged himself to carry on the road program blueprinted by Jim Gillis, veteran highway chairman. They know that with Fred Hand as governor, the roads will be built of carefully inspected materials, and not with a mixture of tar and soap-suds.

These papers know, too, as do others who support Fred Hand, that every mile of road built will be subjected to rigid inspection. He will give to the state administration the same efficient business skill and integrity which he has given his own.

Fred Hand is a rare combination. Public office requires a business administrator if it is to be well conducted. But it also needs a man who understands how to work with the Legislature and with department heads. A knowledge of business and political procedures is a vital ingredient of any successful administration. If one is missing the governor cannot be a good administrator. An understanding of politics is necessary.

Without it, even an honest man would not understand that an unscrupulous road contractor could, with slack inspection, make a profit of hundreds of thousands of dollars on a relatively small deal. Roads cost millions to build. An eye closed to inspection could rob the taxpayers and enrich the crooks.

There are many doors which can be opened by unscrupulous politicians. (The pardon racket, once a rich source of graft, was shut off by constitutional amendment.) That is why knowledge of politics and honesty, are necessary ingredients in the governor's office. Georgia has been making good progress and her reputation for efficient and honest administration is excellent.

Fred Hand has this ability. He is honest.

None who votes for him will ever have to apologize for it.

That is why the Savannah newspaper, and others, have declared for Fred Hand. And while Mr. Griffin may say those papers which oppose him are anti-Southern, it becomes more and more apparent they are, in truth, seeking to preserve the integrity and good name of the state.

That's why they are for Fred Hand.

George Still Doubtful Of Tax Bill Wisdom

The President has signed the huge tax revision bill, a compromise measure hammered out over the weeks that keeps fairly intact the original proposals of the administration and of Secretary Humphrey.

While the bill does provide upwards of $1,363,000,000 in tax relief during its first year, such a tax authority as Sen. Walter George still does not think it a good bill. Its failing, as the senator sees it, is that it does not grant relief to the masses of wage earners and consumers.

"We'll be amending the bill for the next four or five years," Sen. George said. He points out, too, that certain relief measures that will go into effect later will leave the government short of revenue to carry on necessary functions.

The Georgian, who has been in Congress for more than three decades, finds the waning session has a record that is "fairly good." But in spite of the ground covered, "it hasn't produced anything extraordinary in legislation."

Sen. George's continued outspoken criticism of the tax bill assures that it will be one of the major issues in the coming congressional campaign. Much will be heard about the "trickle down" theory, an effective line in any campaign.

Moses Lays Down Law In Regard to Speed

"Moses Storms Out of Safety Council." The headline in the New York Times had nothing to do with the Biblical Moses who led his people through the wilderness.

The reference was to Robert Moses, the New York park commissioner and planner, who last year won $25,000 for his blueprint on how to lead America out of its highway muddle.

The story was about how Mr. Moses resigned as trustee of the National Safety Council in a five-week debate by mail over whether speed is a major cause of auto crashes.

Mr. Moses said, "I know from first-hand experience that speed is the biggest factor in serious accidents and frequently the sole reason for fatal ones."

"How anyone but a desk chair statistician and mathematical hairsplitter can come to any other conclusion is beyond me," he said further.

The Safety Council spokesman said he wasn't so sure.

In this debate we'll follow Moses. In fact, we're not so sure "Thou Shalt Not Speed" should not be the 11th Commandment.

Bernard Baruch at 84 Retains Youthful Mind

Bernard Baruch, who will be 84 years old this week, has remained young of mind because he has kept his mind busy with reading, discussion and with thought. In connection with his birthday, his publishers will bring out a book, "A Philosopher For Our Time." It is a collection of three lectures which Baruch gave last spring at City College, N.Y.

Baruch has a remarkable record of service and advice. True, not much of it has been taken. Once we sought to have the philosopher set down for us the advice he had given which had been rejected but proved right by the passage of time. There is a substantial list of such recommendations. But, as he said, persons usually want to be encouraged to do what they already are doing.

In his book he urges that man, all men, the little along with the big, the unknown and knowns, stand up and be counted. "I have never believed that man had to lie down humbly before anything, even the effects of man's own stupidities, including that most incredible folly of all—war," he said.

He also noted that books are a good source of information, but that contacts are the best place to get knowledge. "I go to the man or woman who knows," he said.

Other bits of advice are these: "One and one make two, and you can't make it any more or any less."

"We can't cross a bridge until we come to it; but I always like to lay down a pontoon ahead of time."

"Liberty in itself is not government." The "I am alone" philosophy has been replaced by "give me mine," but is this the best we can do?"

"No man should think himself a zero, and think he can do nothing about the state of the world."

The advice is good and we are going to try and take it.

But, chiefly, we wish to salute Mr. Baruch, whose father was from South Carolina and a surgeon in the Confederate Army, and wish him many more happy birthdays.

Secrecy in Government Is Still on Increase

The tendency to conduct government business in secrecy continues to grow. During the current session of Congress, according to recent reports by Congressional Quarterly, nearly 40 per cent of committee meetings have been held behind closed doors.

Of 1,287 committee or subcommittee meetings from Jan. 6 through April 10, 38.38 per cent were not open either to the public or to the press. Tied down to committee meetings alone, 40.58 per cent of 648 House and 34.58 per cent of Senate committee meetings were closed.

Rules of the Senate and House specify "all hearings conducted by standing committees or their subcommittees shall be open to the public except executive sessions for marking up bills or for voting or where the committee by a majority vote orders an executive session."

There are justifications for some executive sessions. Hearings on defense matters, for instance, are necessarily secret.

There is no justification, however, for this progressive squeezing out of the public from matters which concern the entire country. Except where it would be prejudicial to the national interests and security, government business is public business. The current trend to secrecy is inimical to strengthening of the democratic processes.

Banks County Journal

Howard Thomas of Madison, accompanied by Phil Campbell, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, of Watkinsonville, attended the S.S. celebration in Homer, Aug. 31. Phil Campbell is an actual dairy farmer and resides on a farm. This puts him in a position to know the real problems of the farmer, and according to his past record we believe he is the best qualified man in the race for this important office.

This is our story...
The story of the Yankee POW's
The Americans who lost their freedom and in losing it learned for the first time

What it meant to be free
This is our story...
How we lived, and laughed and died
behind barbed wire in an alien land

because our country forgot that to be free you must be strong and unafraid

This is our story...
Read it, America,
Read it with fierce pride and burning shame.
Read it, America, and vow
that never again will you grow
Soft and smug and fat and complacent while maggots crawl over the earth and mock your strength.
This is our plea...
Stay alert and strong, America
And remember that the agonies of Cabanatuan and Shinagawa
and the March of Death is the price we had to pay for your awakening.

Man on Horseback Rode at Five Points

Rome—Mr. McGill's story of the English captain who rode his pony into a New York club can be matched right in Atlanta.

In the good old days when I was a member in good standing of the military staff of Gov. Allan D. Candler, the one-eyed plowboy of Pigeon Roost, there was at Five Points, between Decatur St. and Edgewood Avenue, a cigar store presided over by one Harry Silverman, a genial soul indeed.

On a day of big celebration, probably a Confederate veterans' reunion, the governor's staff—uniforms, caps, swords and all—rode in the parade. On reaching Five Points, a member of the staff from Athens rode his beautiful bay mare up on the sidewalk and into the store, bought a cigar from Harry, another member of the staff, and rode out the door on the Edgewood Ave. side.

How do I know? Well, I was there on horseback. They were the days.

Leo Aikman Let's Revive The 'Rita' Show

Not musicals but "Music Under the Stars" has been the order of the summer in Milwaukee, with concerts averaging an attendance of more than 11,000. Evidently, beautiful music competes favorably with beer and baseball among the burghers up on the lakeside. The series has presented Jack Russell, he of the "Show of Shows" and the Chastain Bowl's "Merry Widow," along with three other singers in Rodgers and Hammerstein Night, James Melton and Dorothy Warkenskjold, the Billy Williams Quartet and Ethel Smith at the organ and Jeanette MacDonald and Thomas L. Thomas. The best crowd puller? The Billy Williams foursome, with 33,526.

Over on the Mississippi, the Playboys of St. Louis will open the fall season with "The King and I" and a pay-as-you-go ticket plan which involves a small down deposit and a $1 a month billing charge. Time payments are being made optional for those who want season tickets "to enable many more persons to take advantage of the opportunity to see the best plays available."

Speaking of moonlight musicals, the County Bowl at Santa Barbara, Calif., opened last Friday night with "Rio Rita." You don't have to be such an old-timer to regale in reminiscence of this romance on the Rio Grande, hit of stage and screen. Remember Wheeler and Woolsey and "You're always in my arms, but only in my dreams?" I nominate "Rio Rita" as a starter at the Chastain Bowl next summer.

By the way, don't miss the Third Army Band at Chastain on Friday night, Aug. 27. A preview has been convincing, calls for the whole show.

HIGHLINES: A Georgia politician says the news photographers always snap him with his mouth open. But when does a politician ever have his mouth closed? —Charlie Bennis in The Butler Herald.

The weather is hot and dry; the gubernatorial race is hot, too. But if it weren't for the excessive amount of perspiration at political gatherings over the state, Georgia would indeed be very dry.—Julian Connell in The Ocala Star.

Ben Garland brought his campaign to Homer and made a talk on the courthouse square. He talked much about how he was going to dry up Georgia. Immediately after his speech, we had one of the best rains we have had in some time.—Jack Hilton in The Banks County Journal.

Man Can't Serve God and Mammon

"There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us." That is certainly true. Describing the inner life of man, Goethe said it is regrettable that nature has made only one man of him when there is material aplenty for both a rogue and a gentleman. And both the rogue and the gentleman inside us are each struggling for supremacy.

When we give way to the rogue within us, we violate the feelings of the gentleman and thereby we become ashamed, experience remorse, a sense of sin and an unhappy feeling of guilt. Of one of his characters, H. G. Wells says, "He was not so much a human being as a civil war."

Of course, some people try to bring inner peace by trying to appease both sides of their nature. Dr. Jekyll tried that. He felt that he could let each of his inner selves live within him. So he worked out a plan for himself. During the day he was Dr. Jekyll, dignified and refined, living a life of service. At night he was Mr. Hyde, depraved, monstrous, savage animal.

Always just before dawn after a night of debauchery on the animal level, he would transform himself into the respected person of his other self. This went on for some time until finally one morning during the transformation, one of his hands refused to change.

Though he exercised all the will power and strength he had, he could not change completely from Mr. Hyde back to Dr. Jekyll. Thus he became the prisoner of his animal self, filled with hopeless remorse.

That is repeated again and again. Man feels the call to the high life. Created in the image of God, he instinctively desires to become like God. As Augustine put it, "Man is restless until he finds his rest in Thee, O God." But at the same time, man might indulge his animal nature. He might play with his baser appetites.

Until finally the animal appetite within him gets out of control. Thus, not being like God and yet not having the power within himself to master his animal nature, man becomes caught between his own inner conflicts.

Also there is in man the primitive savage. Between the two there is conflict out of which come many of our "nervous breakdowns," our tensions and our guilts.

Edward Sandford Martin has said it so well in his poem, "Within my earthly temple there's a crowd... There's one of us that's humble, one that's proud... There's one who's broken hearted for his sins... There's one who unrepentant sits and grins... There's one who loves his neighbor as himself... And one who cares for naught but fame and pelf... From such perplexing care I would be free... If I could once determine which is me."

Farm Prices Down, Food Up—Why?

WASHINGTON—If you, as a consumer, are expecting the end of high, rigid farm price supports, as just voted by Congress, to bring down food costs appreciably, if at all, at your grocery market, it would be just as well to forget about it. It hasn't happened so far and there is no evidence that it will.

Farm prices have been going down almost uniformly. Retail prices have been maintaining their peak levels almost uniformly, sometimes increasing. There is no visible prospect that this pattern will change.

There are reasons. On the basis of figures provided by the Department of Agriculture, high food costs are not the result of high retail profits and they are not the result of some pernicious middle-man's plot to gouge the housewife. I count myself no apologist of high food prices, but the reasons retail prices have not declined while farm prices have declined are primarily the high labor costs involved in all aspects of processing and distribution and the fancier, costlier methods of packaging which the consumers prefer even if they do cost more.

The average marketing spread for all foods—which is the difference between what the farmer gets and what the consumer pays—is today about 35 cents of the consumer dollar. This is actually six cents less than it was in 1939, though five cents higher than it was in 1945, since which time the drop in farm prices has not been reflected in a drop in retail prices.

In June of this year, farm prices declined four per cent; retail food prices advanced 1 1/2 per cent.

This spread between farm prices and retail prices is bound to seem inordinately high to the consumer, particularly when the drop in farm prices is not reflected in any drop in retail prices.

But retail prices are not fixed whimsically. They reflect objective economic factors and if farm prices had not come down very probably retail prices would have gone up still further.

The added services demanded, or at least accepted, by consumers constitutes one of the important reasons. There has been a steady upward trend in the amount of marketing service provided to the housewife, including cut-up poultry instead of live chickens, frozen instead of canned food, ready-to-eat biscuits and cake mix instead of flour. This is one of the circumstances which explains the fact that the number of workers in the marketing of farm food products increased from 3.4 to 4.9 million between 1929 and 1953.

Transportation, processing, wholesaling and retailing are costly but needed items along the road from farmer to consumer. Profits of all food marketing agencies take less than four cents out of the consumer's dollar.

More efficient marketing could help, but only slightly. I know of no one who foresees anything likely to change this price picture.

Ike Gets Practical In Campaign Tactics

WASHINGTON—It is doubtful that any President ever will work out a fool-proof and politically wise formula for separating the goats from the sheep in his own party membership in Congress. Every two years the opportunity arises in congressional elections. The temptation is strong for a President to seize it to try to discipline recalcitrants from whom he, his party and his program have suffered frustrations in the Congress that has sat in the two years before an election.

Franklin D. Roosevelt yielded to such temptation once, back in 1938, and we had the spectacle of what his foes called "the purge," his attempt to choose between Democrats in a number of cases in primary elections of that year. It failed completely with regard to a number of senatorial "victims" he picked.

The problem of disciplined unity in either of our major political parties is difficult because of the very temper of our people, which includes those who become their public servants. Individuality and independence are national characteristics.

Now it has come President Eisenhower's turn to learn how hard it is to classify individual party members within this wide spectrum in his own party.

A year or so ago the President's position was that in the 1954 congressional campaign he would not take part in any individual contest, but would campaign broadly for the party and would be for all Republicans against all Democrats. Now, this past week, he has altered this somewhat because of developing circumstances to embody decisions on individual cases as they come along, with no hard-and-fast rule.

Only a few days before the announcement of that course he had shown how this "electivity" can have its apparent inconsistencies.

Davis Clashes With Abram On Record, Unit System

The eight-year record of incumbent Rep. James C. Davis is a major issue in the Fifth District congressional race, Davis and candidate Morris Abram agreed Monday but the two disagreed violently on what the record means.

Southwest Hears Area Candidates

By GENE BRITTON

Georgians are not as interested as they should be in their state government and for that reason the state has one of the "dirtiest" political setups in the nation, gubernatorial candidate Edmond Barfield charged Monday night.

Barfield headed a group of candidates for county and state offices who addressed a gathering at Southwest High School.

He called for removal of sales tax on food and medicine, a "bone dry" state, encouragement of out-of-state manufacturers to locate in Georgia to boost employment, increased benefits for veterans, the aged and the physically handicapped and a stronger National Guard.

PLAYS ZACK CRAVEY

Joe Frank Miles, candidate for comptroller general, emphasized criticism of incumbent Zack Cravey for his "accumulation of personal wealth" and promised to ask revision of a 1952 law in order to establish an appeal from "star chamber" hearings of insurance company complaints.

Young Tillman, candidate for agriculture commissioner, promised a "most constructive administration" if he is elected.

In the race for state senator, R. L. (Shorty) Doyal reminded voters that he has been a high school teacher and football coach and "if you can trust me with the care of your children you should be able to trust me with the affairs of your government." He also appeared on WAGA-TV.

State Sen. Everett Millican was not present, but in a five-minute talk over WSB-TV at 8 p.m. he reviewed his record in office and pledged to continue giving "honest, decent and constructive service."

REPEATS PROMISE

Rep. Hamilton Lokey said when he first ran for the General Assembly he promised that he would not commit himself on any issue before he had heard all the arguments. He said he was repeating that promise.

Wilson Brooks, candidate for the State House, charged the incumbent, Hoke Smith, with "bolting the Democratic party."

Charlie Franco attacked both Smith and Brooks and called for their withdrawal because he said, Smith is a Republican and Brooks was rejected in his bid for the office by 10,000 votes in the last election.

Smith said he was standing on his four-year record in the General Assembly and urged voters to "look to your heart" in selecting their representatives.

CLAIMS SENIORITY

M. M. (Muggsy) Smith said he had seniority over the entire Fulton delegation in the House and Abram, Davis and Wyman C. Lowe, the third candidate, spoke to the North DeKalb Kiwanis Club. Abram, Lowe and a Davis supporter also spoke at a civic club rally at Southwest High School in Fulton County. Davis was represented at two other meetings and Abram took to radio and television with his campaign.

Abram, in his talks, said Davis is standing on a record of economy, but that "short-sighted extravagance and foolish thrift is the only record he (Davis) has to offer you."

CITES ADVANTAGES

Davis again emphasized he felt the real issue in the campaign is whether he had represented the people of the Fifth District with "integrity, truth, honesty and ability." He went on to cite advantages his service had brought to Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale Counties.

Lowe stressed his college training in government and his membership in the active reserve as arguments for his candidacy. He said he was for across-the-board income tax cuts and a foreign policy similar to Theodore Roosevelt's "walk softly and carry a big stick" theory.

In attacking Davis' record, Abram said the incumbent cast the vote by which a bill authorizing $50,000,000 in aid to Korea failed in 1950. Such an appropriation would have cost each taxpayer less than 30 cents.

SIGNAL TO REDS

"All over the Far East this vote was a signal to the Communists to move," Abram said. "Six months later, they struck North Korea."

Abram reiterated that another major issue in the campaign was "the right to vote for the man that taxes you." Under the county unit system, which he said Davis keeps alive in the district, voters in the district do not have equal voices.

Davis countered Abram's county unit charges by saying again he had nothing to do with the rules set by the district Democratic executive committee. He said Abram is trying to stir up prejudices between voters in the three counties in the district to cloud the real issue in the campaign, the incumbent's record.

The incumbent said he voted against the Korean aid authorization bill because research on it asked reelection to continue "constructive" program.

His opponent, Ralph McClellan Jr., said records showed Smith had gone along with but had not initiated any constructive programs. He said he would not represent any "special group" if elected.

Jim Aldredge and I. Gloer Hailey, in the race for county commissioner, also spoke.

Smith said he was standing on his four-year record in the General Assembly and urged voters to "look to your heart" in selecting their representatives.

Smith said he was standing on his four-year record in the General Assembly and urged voters to "look to your heart" in selecting their representatives.

BUSINESSMAN DIES

was six months old and he felt the bill should be returned to committee for further study.

Davis pointed to his work on the Buford Dam project, which he said insured the future growth of the metropolitan Atlanta area. His work in obtaining federal aid for DeKalb schools was recently praised by school officials, he pointed out.

Athens' J. J. Wilkins Jr. Is Dead at 55

ATHENS, Aug. 16—John J. Wilkins Jr., 55, well-known businessman of the Atlanta-Athens area, died Monday at his home in Athens.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Athens. Burial will be in Oconee Hill Cemetery.

A native of Athens, Mr. Wilkins was chairman of the board of Nunnally and McCrea Co., Atlanta; Bellgrade Manufacturing Co., Winder and Athens; Big Ace Corp., Athens; president of treasurer of Wilkins Inc., Winder and Athens, and vice president of Charles W. Henson Manufacturing Co., Lawrenceville.

Mr. Wilkins, a life-long member of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, founded the Emmanuel Parish Endowment Fund in 1942 in memory of his parents.

He attended public schools of Athens and was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1920.

Mr. Wilkins was a member of Chi Phi Fraternity, the Newcomen Society, Athens Country Club, Piedmont Driving Club, and was a Mosan and Knight Templar.

He was a member of the American Institute of Management and a former director of the Southern Garments Manufacturers Assn.

Surviving are his wife, the former Marjorie E. Woods; two sons, John J. Wilkins III and Thomas Hart Wilkins, both of Athens, and two sisters, Miss Josephine Wilkins of Atlanta and Mrs. John R. Cochran of Athens.

You Know So Much About Its Owner!

Of course, you don't know the name of the gentleman who holds the title to this beautiful and distinguished automobile.

We can't tell you ourselves who he is. We don't know his name, or his occupation, or his place of residence, or the mission that brought him to this particular spot.

And yet, we feel—as you undoubtedly do—that we know a great deal about him!

We would surmise, for instance, that he is a well-known and widely respected member of his community—and a prominent figure in his daily profession.

We would guess, with reasonable certainty, that he is a person of sound judgment and excellent taste.

We would be willing to venture that he places great value on the comfort and safety and well-being of his family and his friends.

And we would feel safe in saying that he is the sort of person you would like to know.

For anyone who has enjoyed the privilege of daily contact with Cadillac owners—as we have—understands that the vast majority of those who drive this distinguished car share a great common bond in all these respects.

Owners, the world over, will testify that the wonderful things a Cadillac says about you constitute one of the finest rewards of Cadillac ownership. But it is important to remember that Cadillac's eloquence is essentially a by-product of Cadillac's quality.

And this quality has never before been so manifest as in the Cadillac creation currently in our showroom. It is beautiful . . . and distinguished . . . and luxurious . . . and fine in performance—to a degree unprecedented, even for the "Standard of the World".

Why not stop in and see us soon for a personal inspection and demonstration? You'll be a most welcome visitor at any time!

Hard of Hearing?

Would you try to fit your own eyeglasses? With several hundred lens combinations to choose from, it would be an endless and confusing task—even if you could be sure that what you like, when you try it on, would be the best for you.

Hearing aids must be fitted, too (Government agencies and medical clinics insist on the fitting practice). Many manufacturers cheapen their instruments by leaving out fitting controls, attempting to justify it with the claim that fittings are unnecessary.

All Sonotone instruments provide several hundred fitting combinations. Sonotone Hearing Aid Consultants are trained in the measurement of hearing losses and the fitting of the proper instrument to bring you the best possible results. Defective ears are a poor judge of what is best, regardless of how the instrument first sounds when you try it on.

If you want what is best for your needs, Sonotone Hearing Aid Consultants are trained in restoring your hearing to an near normal as possible and in keeping it that way. Why accept less?

Thompson Broke Law, Hand Says

Gubernatorial candidate Fred Hand Monday charged that M. E. Thompson violated state law in granting John Horace Bowen a liquor license in 1946.

Hand used a copy of Bowen's liquor license, which he said was granted by Thompson, as revenue commissioner, over the disapproval of the director of the alcohol control unit on WSB-TV.

The copy of the license application showed in handwriting "Disapproved April 24, 1946, C. A. G." C. A. Gillespie was head of the alcohol control unit at that time. On the same license was the writing: "O.K., M. E. Thompson."

"NOT ELIGIBLE"
Thompson approved this license although he knew that John Horace Bowen had a criminal record and therefore was not eligible to hold a liquor license, Hand asserted.

Hand then quoted from Claude Shaw's investigation of the liquor racket.

Judge Claude Shaw—when he was investigating the Thompson-Bowen liquor racket in 1943—declared Thompson "violated the law" by giving Bowen a license, Hand stated.

Hand charged that Bowen is contributing to the campaigns of both Marvin Griffin and Thompson.

COPY OF PARDON
He again flashed the copy of Griffin's pardon and said:

"In my left hand I hold a copy of the pardon Marvin Griffin signed for himself. It's the symbol of the pardon racket. It personifies Marvin Griffin."

"In my right hand, I hold a copy of the liquor license application M. E. Thompson approved in violation of the law for John Horace Bowen. It personifies M. E. Thompson."

"In the center, you have Fred Hand, who stands for clean, honest, efficient and business-like government."

The House speaker stuck by his guns on his contention that the Griffin pardon had mysteriously disappeared and reappeared. A week ago, Gov. Talmadge declared that anyone who said he had tampered with the official records "is lying."

"MAN OF HONOR"
"I received my information from that official, himself," Hand said, without identifying the official. "He told me he had the original pardon in his possession. Knowing him to be a man of honor, I believed him and so reported to you."

Hand continued: "Now there's a rumor going around that this official was mistaken. According to the rumor, he's found out that what he thought to be the actual pardon was only a certified copy of it. I don't know whether this is true."

"But this much I do know—the official told me he had the pardon. And if I was wrong in so telling you, it was because he misled me," Hand concluded.

Attorneys For States Shift Meet

The National Association of Attorneys General—headed by Georgia Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, president—announced Monday the transfer of the annual meeting from Biloxi, Miss., to Phoenix, Ariz.

The announcement was made by the association's executive committee, which declined to give a reason for the change.

The transfer followed, however, a controversy over Cook's decision not to invite U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell to the national meeting.

Brownell's intervention in the public school segregation cases before the U. S. Supreme Court was the basis of the controversy. Cook said because of that Brownell's appearances as a principal speaker at Biloxi would be embarrassing to Mississippi Atty. Gen. James P. Coleman.

Cook charged that briefs submitted in the segregation case by Brownell's assistant "contained unnecessary, vicious attacks upon the people and public officials of these 17 states having segregation."

New York Atty. Gen. Nathaniel Goldstein severely criticized Cook for refusing to invite Brownell to Biloxi and threatened to force the issue before the association's executive committee. Goldstein was joined in criticizing Cook by Atty. Gen. Don Fastvold of Washington, who demanded that Cook resign. The Georgia attorney general said he would not resign.

An agreement to pool funds for research in several lines of forestry was reached Monday by the Georgia Forestry Commission, the Southeastern Forestry Experiment Station, the Georgia Forest Research Council and the University of Georgia.

Funds will be used in a joint effort to develop improved strains of Southern pines, to control undesirable hardwood and to study the biology and control of the state's forest diseases and insect problems.

The new undertaking was made possible by a $50,000 grant to the Georgia Forest Research Council by Gov. Talmadge.

Griffin, Linder, Neeson Skip 'Tolerance' Pledge

Marvin Griffin, Tom Linder and Arthur Neeson, candidates for governor, failed to sign a "tolerance" pledge to refrain from appealing to racial or religious prejudice, a report by the Georgia League of Women Voters disclosed Monday.

Fred Hand did not sign the pledge as written by 34 civic and religious organizations, but he did make a written promise not to appeal to religious prejudice or endeavor to set race against race. M. E. Thompson, Charlie Gowen, Ben Garland, Mrs. Grace Thomas, and Edmond Barfield signed the pledge which was designed to "obtain greater dignity and morality in Georgia's political campaigns."

Candidates Plan 2-Way Disaster Plea

Two candidates for public office Monday moved toward bringing drought relief to Georgia.

Frank Adamson of Jonesboro, candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, announced he will fly to Washington Tuesday for conferences with Secretary of Agriculture Benson and other federal officials. He expressed hope that a personal plea will bring relief to drought-stricken farmers.

Guy Stone of Glenwood, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, outlined a three-point program to combat drought disaster in the future. If elected, he said he will:

1. Ask commissioners of agriculture in other states to join him in a conference with Benson on setting up faster working federal machinery for aid.
2. Ask the Georgia congressional delegation to push legislation to make federal relief funds available without so much red tape.
3. Ask the Georgia Legislature to recommend that Congress establish a bipartisan agricultural commission to set standards defining farm disaster.

State-Paid Campaign Speeches Urged

Special to The Constitution
ELLIJAY, Aug. 16—Gubernatorial candidate Ben Garland Monday advocated state-financed gubernatorial speeches, with all candidates appearing simultaneously on the same platforms over the state.

He assailed candidates' violating the state's $25,000 limitation on campaign spending. He urged Georgia to adopt the South Carolina plan, whereby the government bears the expenses for all candidates to tour the state for simultaneous appearances.

James C. Davis and Morris Abram, the other Fifth District candidates, signed the "tolerance" pledge. Davis added he would discuss racial questions when they were involved in the campaign.

All four candidates for lieutenant governor signed the pledge. They are Ernest Vandiver, John Greer, William T. Dean and William Barrett.

Of 42 candidates for contested state and congressional offices, 27 candidates (or about two-thirds) signed the pledge, the league said.

None of the Fourth District candidates signed. They are William Trotter, John J. Flynt and Frank Adamson.

In the Eighth District, W. A. Wraggs signed, but W. M. Wheeler and Mrs. Iris Blitch did not.

Five of the six candidates for commissioner of agriculture signed. Young Tillman did not sign. Garland Byrd, Phil Campbell, Dr. T. B. Clower, Clark Gaines and Guy Stone did.

Joe Frank Miles, candidate for comptroller general, signed the pledge. Zach Cravey and Thomas did not.

Neither George Hamilton nor C. F. Swint Sr., candidates for state treasurer, signed. There was no signature from Crawford Plicher nor Dr. L. N. Huff, candidates for public service commissioner.

Thompson 'Not Looking To the Past'

Gubernatorial candidate M. E. Thompson told a television audience Monday night that he will "refrain from answering absurd charges" by his opponents and that he is "not looking to the past."

Thompson appeared over WSB-TV with seven of his supporters from Cedartown.

"We're not looking to the past," Thompson declared. "We're looking to the future."

Thompson pledged his campaign will be based on the issues facing the state and he will not bring "personalities" into his campaign speeches.

Albert F. Moore, chairman of Cedartown City Commission, pointed out that in the gubernatorial campaign there have been many reports of certain candidates being backed by liquor interests.

"Look around at the illicit liquor dealers in your section," he told the TV audience, "and see who they are supporting. It won't be M. E. Thompson." Other Thompson supporters on the program were Mrs. Charles R. Porter, chaplain of Cedartown Eastern Star; Miss Rhenette Minshew, school teacher; Dan Veal, city commissioner; Lamar Gammage, president of Cedartown Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Fred Brewster, city commissioner.

Gowen Says Linder Put 130 on Roll

By DERICK DANIELS
Constitution Staff Writer
COVINGTON, Aug. 16—Candidate-for-governor Charles Gowen charged Monday that Tom Linder, as agriculture commissioner, put 130 employees on his "overcrowded payroll" in 1952-53 to help as 1954 campaign workers.

Gowen said Linder increased the expenditure of the Agriculture Department by half a million dollars but that he is "yet to find a dirt farmer who says he got any advantage from it."

He said the farmers' market under Linder's direction has been operated for "speculators, pinhookers and middle men."

POLITICAL STEW

In speeches at McDonough, Monticello and Covington, Gowen dined candidates Marvin Griffin and M. E. Thompson into a political stew of "liquor racketeers and negotiating road contractors"—a stew he has reheated for every audience.

Then he spiced up the stew-pot with the charge that special interest backers of Thompson and Griffin had been called into hotel room conferences over the weekend and told to pitch in thousands of dollars more to retrieve the losses of the past week.

And he predicted that "heavy money boys would be apt to drop either Marvin or Melyn in the next three weeks to concentrate on the other."

WILL RUN SHORT

"You will be able to tell who is getting ditched," Gowen said. "He's gonna run a little short on money."

"But the stablemate who gets the nod will wind up in the greatest blaze of hillbilly bands, barbecue and pink lemonade that Georgia has ever seen," Gowen said. "The candidate accused Thompson of shilly-shallying" on the private school issue and trying to fool the voters.

As for Griffin, Gowen said, he ducked out of talking before last week's school teacher meeting at Dahlonga because he was "afraid to face the Georgia Education Association."

Renewing his pledge to lop off the state payroll "leeches," Gowen said every one of the last five governors has used the state payroll as means of paying off political debts.

MORE PAVING

He promised that if he's elected he will use 30 million dollars saved through economy to pave eight extra miles of rural roads each year in every county, increase old-age pensions and give teachers a cost-of-living raise.

He pledged to see that the cost of hospital insurance is reduced and that insurance companies cannot arbitrarily cancel policies.

After his talk to voters at Covington, Gowen headed back to Atlanta to rest up for a 26-hour radio-television marathon beginning at 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Griffin Proposes Retention Of Highway Commission

By ALBERT RILEY

A dinner crowd that filled the Atlanta Athletic Club auditorium gave Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin repeated applause Monday night as he renewed his attacks on the Atlanta newspapers and proposed retention of the present state highway board if he is elected governor.

The audience also cheered as Griffin included Fred Hand in his attack on the Atlanta papers and defended himself against charges that he signed his own pardon for a contempt of court conviction while serving as executive secretary to former Gov. E. D. Rivers.

Praising James L. Gillis, Dixon of Oxford and John Quillian for their work on the highway board, Griffin noted that the board is elected by the Legislature and said:

"Should the General Assembly see fit to re-elect the present members of the state highway board, it would make me very happy and I will work with them to continue the great road and bridge building program which has been accomplished during this administration."

PARDON CHARGES

Defending himself against pardon charges as he hit back at the Atlanta newspapers, Griffin said:

"They do not want you to know that the laws of Georgia have never given an executive secretary to the governor pardoning power, and that an executive secretary only witnesses a governor's signature as a notary public witnesses a deed."

Repeating his accusations that "the foreign-owned Atlanta newspaper monopoly" is making "vicious, unwarranted attacks on him," Griffin also charged the papers are against the county unit system and segregation. There are some things the papers don't want the people to know, he added.

"They do not want you to know that their candidate for governor is as involved in the liquor racket in Georgia as are M. E. Thompson and John Horace Bowen," Griffin declared.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

The papers, he also said, "do not want you to know that on Feb. 16, 1949, the Georgia State Senate, under my leadership, passed a bill prohibiting liquor advertising in newspapers circulating in dry counties by a vote of 42 to 2, and then they got their candidate for governor to pigeon-hole this bill in the House of Representatives."

In a fiery speech in which Whitman called Griffin Gov. Talmadge's "strong right arm."

Claiming the support of "an overwhelming majority of the members of the House and Senate" for Griffin, Whitman pointedly noted that James L. Bentley, Talmadge's executive secretary, was at the speaker's table along with five members of the State Board of Education.

If you have changed (or are thinking of changing) to a filter cigarette, here are some facts you should know:

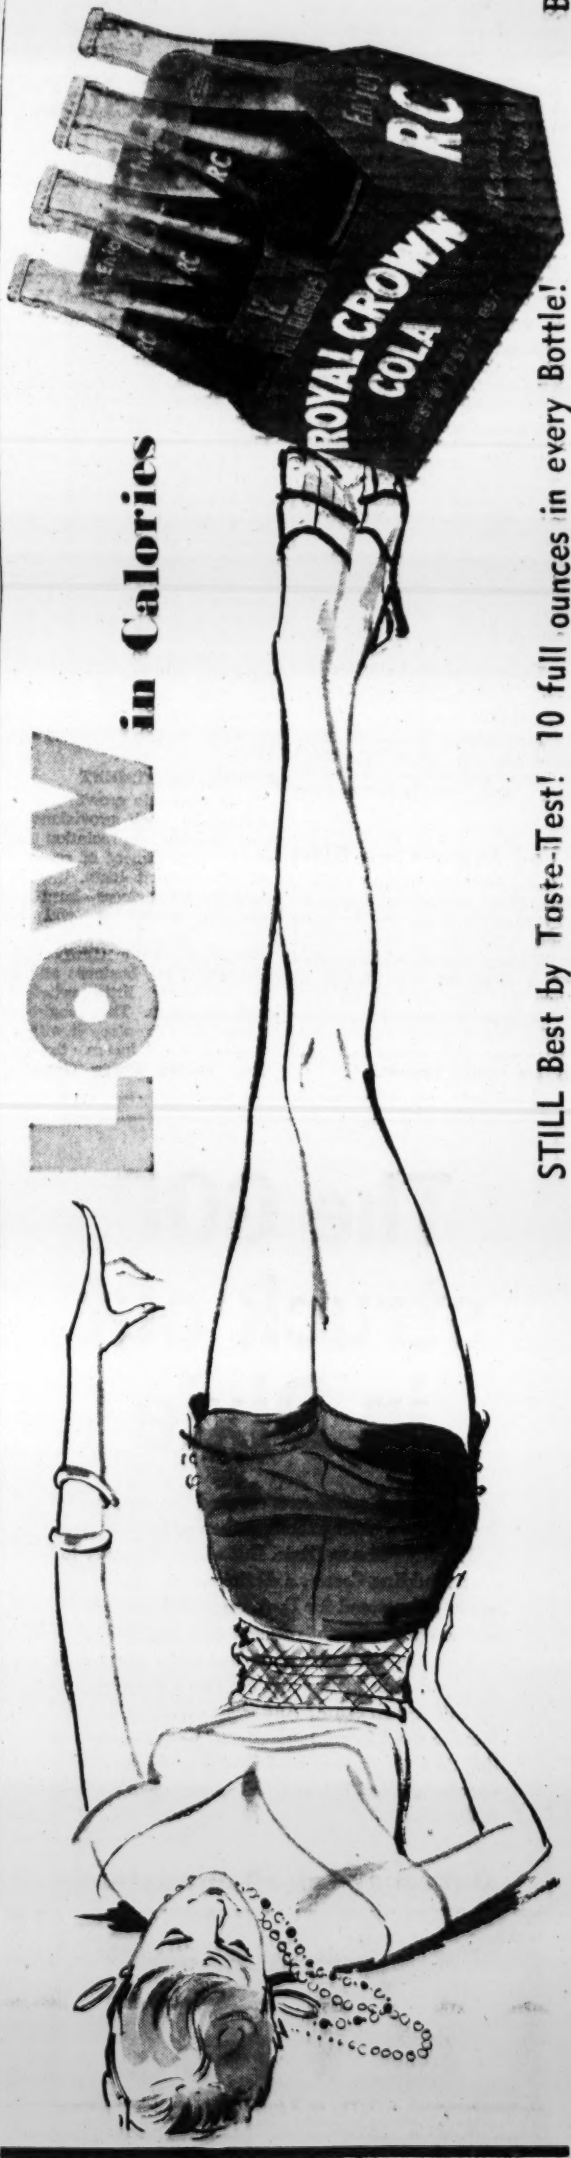

All filter cigarettes (except KENT) rely on filters made only of paper, cotton or some form of cellulose.

KENT, and only KENT, has the Micronite Filter—the most expensive of all filters to make, and the most effective. Yes, of all leading filter cigarettes, KENT filters out more nicotine and tars than any other.

Because of the greater effectiveness of the easy-drawing Micronite Filter, KENT can give you true tobacco flavor... the rich, mellow flavor of costlier tobaccos, especially blended for the tastiest of filter smoking.

KENT REGULAR and new KING SIZE filters out more nicotine and tars than any other leading filter cigarette.

ing—with all candidates sharing the same platform over the state.

Lt. Gov. Griffin addressed a "Griffin-for-Governor" dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He lauded "such outstanding appointees" as State Revenue Commissioner Charlie Redwine and State Banking Supt. Gus Persons, as well as the three highway commissioners. Griffin said he would follow Gov. Talmadge's example in picking outstanding men for office.

Speaker Hand made his charges in a talk over WSB-TV. He said Thompson overrode the alcohol control unit director in order to grant Bowen a license. Hand said Thompson violated the state law when he licensed a person with a criminal record.

Speaking in Covington, Monticello and McDonough, Gowen sailed into Linder. He declared dirt farmers have not benefited by Linder's padding of the payrolls with campaign workers.

Gowen's headquarters, meanwhile, announced further plans for the "talkathon" beginning at 9 p.m. Wednesday. It will be staged in the show windows of an automobile concern at 241 Spring St., corner of Spring and Baker. Radio and television will be used.

Tuesday's schedule will find Thompson speaking in Barnesville at 8 p.m.; Hand speaking over the Cartersville radio at 12:15 p.m. and Calhoun radio at 7 p.m.; Griffin speaking at Newnan at 5:30 p.m. and over WAGA-TV at 9:30 p.m.; and Garland speaking in Chatsworth at 10 a.m. and at Ringgold at 3 p.m.

848 New Teachers Sought by GEA, But School Board Insists 'No Funds'

fore the board to press need for additional teachers in Georgia included Harvey Cutts, immediate past GEA president; J. Harold Saxon, GEA secretary, and Henry Shaw, superintendent of Muscogee County schools and a member of the GEA's board of directors.

Whitman demanded of the GEA group, "Do you believe we have funds secreted somewhere that we are deliberately holding back?"

The State Board of Education chairman declared the GEA did not "show the right spirit," adding, "If State Auditor Thrasher, Gov. Talmadge, and business administrator Claude Purcell say funds are not available, that's good enough for us."

Whitman insisted his board "does everything in its power to make all funds available from any source." He told GEA leaders, "We can get further if we stand together!"

Sprayberry emphasized during the exchange that the GEA "has no ill feeling toward the board." He told the board the GEA was concerned about "an estimated 50,000 children who will have to be placed in already overcrowded classrooms."

Sprayberry said individual teacher loads over the state will be raised past the point of efficiency unless funds are forthcoming to hire additional teachers.

Extra budget allotments in the amount of more than $6,000,000 already are being spent to bring up teacher salaries under the Minimum Foundation program and to provide an additional 900 teachers for the state's classrooms. However, GEA spokesmen insisted that, on the basis of last year's average daily enrollment, school systems over the state have "earned" 1,748—instead of only 900—new teachers.

They cited a 1953 legislative act which they said should provide for the extra teachers.

$2½ MILLION NEEDED

At least $2,500,000 in additional funds would be necessary to hire 848 teachers, allowing for approximately $3,000 per teacher.

Whitman declared he was "alarmed" over gubernatorial candidates' campaign promises that more money would be available for schools, warning they "could only result in disappointment."

He criticized speeches made at last week's meeting of the GEA at Dahlonega, saying, "certain candidates" had "duped" school teachers into thinking "the millions would begin to flow as soon as the new governor takes office."

NO MONEY

"The money just isn't over there in the state treasury," Whitman said. He quoted Thrasher's warning that the state faces an estimated $24,000,000 deficit next year.

The board also: (1) Deferred discussion of a detailed schedule of standards for school buses; (2) Appointed a three-man committee to study the problem of Georgia's expanding vocational education program needs after hearing a report that more instructors are needed; (3) Directed Purcell to investigate an emergency teacher shortage in the Cherokee County school system and arrange for "a redistribution of teachers within the district if possible; (4) Approved transfer of $60,000 from state surplus funds to two state FFA youth camps, Camp Jackson at Covington and Camp John Hope at Fort Valley.

dividuals. It gives taxpayers an extra month to file their returns—April 15 instead of March 15.

Mr. Eisenhower, who called the overall reduction of $7,400,000,000 "the largest dollar tax cut in any year in the nation's history," signed the revision bill in the presence of congressional leaders.

Flipping through the 929 pages of the bill, he remarked with a laugh: "Boy, there is a lot of work in there for the lawyers."

In a formal statement, Mr. Eisenhower noted that the new law will benefit taxpayers with heavy medical expenses, working widows and widowers with small children and persons who live on retirement income.

"In addition to removing inequities in our tax system," he said, "this law will help our economy expand and thus add materially to the strength of our nation."

BETTER TREATMENT

"This economic growth will be fostered by such provisions as more flexible depreciation and better tax treatment of research and development costs, thus encouraging all business—large and small—to modernize and expand."

Democrats have charged the bill benefits big business and offers relatively little relief to small taxpayers. They fought unsuccessfully to replace it with an across-the-board income tax cut.

'CHARGES DEAL'

"Let's look at the Dixon-Yates scandal which occupied so much attention during the atomic energy debate in the Senate a couple of weeks ago.

"Here was a deal to buy power from a plant to be built (at West Memphis, Ark.) by Dixon-Yates to meet the needs of the atomic energy plant at Paducah.

"A competing syndicate offered to provide the power for 90 million dollars less than Dixon-Yates—and the TVA would provide the power for 140 million less.

"Yet, the President issued a personal order to give the contract to Dixon-Yates over the protest of both the Atomic Energy Commission and the TVA without competitive bidding.

"The Senate subcommittee on monopoly has asked for funds to investigate this deal but the Senate Republican leadership through Sen. Jenner has bottled up the request so they can't get a dime.

"Here is something that really needs investigating.

CLOSE FRIENDS

"It so happens that a director of one of the two companies in the favored syndicate is one of the President's closest friends—with a cottage next to President Eisenhower's at the Augusta golf course."

Mitchell said that, "Maybe it's just a coincidence that some of the bankers in this administration came from banks which underwrote this kind of project," adding:

"If a Democratic President had ever done anything like this, we

Replacing Champs Problem For Grady's Erskine Russell

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Some 800 to 1,000 aspiring youngsters began perspiring Monday as Atlanta's 13-team City League coaches joined other mentors in the state in readying their high school football charges for the 1954 campaign, which will begin for all of them either Sept. 3 or 10.

Erskine Russell, whose Grady Knights won the state Class AA title for him last year, began wondering how a fellow goes about replacing such star performers as Willie Lofton, Jeff Davis, Harry McDevitt, David Meyer, Walter Stovall, Pete Brandt, Mike Trotter and Jerome Green.

Over at Murphy High, where Max Ivey's Eagles grabbed the state crown two years ago, new mentor Arthur Armstrong began to realize that coaching might be fun with huskies like Hal Davis, 240-pound Baby Tidwell and Norman King around.

Carl Fletcher, moved from Smith to Southwest, doesn't know why they think you can't take it with you. He's "taken along" Billy Hall, ace quarterback from his Smithies, to help him get started on the right foot.

Lloyd Kimmel, taking over from Fletcher at Smith, will have to go it without big Bobby Kearn, punter, deluxe, and little Claude Shaddy, runner of ability, but Melvin Ferguson is still on hand to foot it.

North Fulton's new head man, Frank Jernigan, will miss Joe DeLany and quarterback Bobby Charnley, but Bobby Stephens, a top runner, and Dillion Johnston should help keep the wrinkles from his brow.

Red Emmert might be venturing a guess that Roosevelt could finish higher than in recent years. He has Ted Moseley, top 1953 City League passer with 65 completions in 145 throws for 670 yards and nine TDs, plus two promising runners in Charles Smith and Fred Rice.

Bass' Phil Alexander is happy with a new toy, the single wing attack, and he believes Phil Heister, third leading City League gainer last outing, is just the lad to make it go. Jim Hawk, Johnny Sajem, Jim Hannah and Winkie Kirk make the newly nicknamed "Warriors" look tough defensively.

Jack Peek has lost a lot, but has a lot left. Donnie Meador should be one of the state's finest tacklers. Freddie Trainer may move from end to backfield and make passers like Richard Allen just a memory.

Bill Chonko at Fulton may cry crocodile tears, but he wouldn't trade Fred Murphy and Larry Rudin for any of them. The same is true of Wayman Creel, but Lester Simerville, who gained 1,039 yards in 1953, and ex Paul Knox, a fancy quarterback, are

FOUND: A PARADISE FOR LOSERS Tech Traveler · Dodd Impressed With Hawaiian, Texas Football

By BERT PRATHER

Bobby Dodd has discovered a paradise for losing football coaches.

The Georgia Tech mentor, just returned from Honolulu by way of Dallas, Texas, where he served as all-star coach and featured lecturer at the Hawaiian and Texas high school football clinics, picks those islanders as the ideal fans.

"Why, after Jess Neely's (Rice Institute football coach) team beat my group of high school youngsters, 14-6, in the Honolulu All-Star game, no one ever mentioned the game to me. They have plenty of enthusiasm before and during the game, but when it is over they don't go back and replay and second-guess. At a gathering after the all-star game, everyone was talking about something else. It was still a game to them. And it sure was refreshing," Dodd said.

BOBBY DODD

Dodd said he was impressed by the fine brand of football played on the island, too. "There are eight high schools in Honolulu. Neely's team was selected from four of the teams and mine from the other four. I taught my squad the Tech stuff and they picked it up fast. They like to pop the leather, too."

"About seven or eight of the players have scholarships in the States. Purdue had about four. Others were headed for Pacific Coast schools such as Oregon, Oregon State and Stanford. One reason for the rapid advance of football in Hawaii, I believe, is that the coaches are practically all former college players from the mainland."

After the Honolulu clinic, Dodd and Neely moved to Dallas for the Lone Star State's big high school grid clinic last week. They again climaxed the clinic by coaching the opposing all-star squads and this time the Georgia Tech head man got revenge. Hob's team measured Jess' husky squad, 7-6, last Saturday night in the Cotton Bowl before a big turnout.

Dodd's two top Tech aides, line coach Ray Graves and backfield tutor Frank Broyles, served as his assistants for the Dallas classic.

What Dodd saw at Dallas bore out what he already knew. "They simply have the finest high school football talent in the country there," he said.

And it might be added, most of it stays there too.

Tarleton's Two-Run Belt Nets Simmons 6-4 Win

Post 147 Collects 20 Hits; Doraville Beats Tyrone, 9-8

University of Georgia star Wendell Tarleton homered with one on in the seventh to pave the way as Simmons Service took a 6-4 victory from Chamblee in second-round play of the City Amateur baseball tournament.

Tarleton's homer put Simmons four runs behind and provided the actual winning run as Chamblee shoved across three scores in the bottom of the seventh.

Jim Hill and Donnie Barnes both collected two hits for the winners while Buck Powers had a pair of singles for Chamblee.

At Center Hill, Post 147 exploded 20 hits to slam past Glenwood Hills, 18-9. Doc Wallace, route for the 16th time. Donovan, who didn't walk a man and fanned five, went the distance for the 13th time.

Manager Whitlow Wyatt will depend on Bob Giggie (7-9) for a season's sweep here in the final game between the clubs Tuesday night. Gerry Lane (12-6) will hurl for Chattanooga.

CRACKER DIARY: Crackers are on an extra-base binge, accounting for 31 of their 37 runs in the last six games on 16 homers and an assortment of triples and doubles. . . . Pitchers have surrendered only two walks in three games. . . . Leo Cristante signed two passes in the Lookout opener Saturday night, and Glenn Thompson and Dick Donovan didn't issue any in the next two tilts.

Chuck Tanner's low RBI output is one of the things that has kept him in the minors, but he's already knocked in 83 mates this year. Previous high was 65 here in 1952. . . . Bob Montag almost caught Hank Dijkhoff's homer in the fifth, tipping it over the fence after making a leaping stab at the ball.

Gene Verble got routine $5 fine for being charged in Sunday's contest. . . . Slumping Lookouts have dropped nine of the last 11 games, but still remain in fourth place.

Dancer Takes First In Oneonta

Ticket Windows Closed for Race

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 16 (AP)—Alfred Vanderbilt's great grey Native Dancer staged a one-horse show at Saratoga race course today, winning the $5,025 Oneonta Handicap by nine lengths under 137 pounds—heaviest load of his brilliant career.

Mrs. Rea Warner's Trusting was scratched, leaving only three horses in the special event which was held with no betting. But there was only one horse the crowd watched—and cheered—as he took charge at the head of the stretch from his stablemate, First Glance.

Caroline Passes Scholastic Tests For Eligibility

CHICAGO, Aug. 16 (AP)—Football coach Ray Eliot of Illinois received the good news today: Halfback J. C. Caroline is eligible for the coming season.

Caroline, the nation's leading ground gainer as a sophomore last year, brought his scholastic standing up to requirements by attending summer school.

Clark Hits Jackpot in Ace Tourney

Frank Clark, East Lake Country Club assistant professional, hit the jackpot in the charity hole-in-one tournament being staged at Peachtree Hills Golf Center Monday night when he holed out for the first ace ever registered in the two-year history of this tourney. The tournament is sponsored by the American Business Club with all proceeds going to the Cerebral Palsy School.

The ace, 10th of Frank's career, earned him an all-expense, one-week vacation to Jacksonville for two in addition to qualifying him for Sunday's grand championship.

Clark had tied with Pete Kosky, another East Lake assistant pro, and amateur John Lemming, for Sunday's first prize by placing his shot about three inches from the pin.

Over 800 have competed in the tournament which started Sunday and continues through next Sunday.

Peiping Air Says Attlee Vows Amity

TOKYO, Tuesday, Aug. 17—Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai and British labor leader Clement Attlee pledged mutual friendship and urged "peaceful co-existence" and expanded trade last night at a dinner in honor of the British party, Radio Peiping said today.

According to the broadcast, Chou expressed belief that the visit of the British group "will play a positive role in strengthening Sino-British friendship." He said his government was ready to "take steps to promote the peaceful cooperation between China and Britain."

Radio Peiping said the statements were made at an exchange of toasts at the dinner. The broadcast quoted Attlee as replying that "believing in freedom and democracy for ourselves we seek that others may enjoy the right to order their lives in the way they think best. A recognition of the rights of other peoples is essential for the preservation of peace," Attlee said. "The alternative to war is peaceful co-existence."

Victim of Auto Hitting Porch Is 37th City Death

Atlanta's 37th traffic fatality for the year was recorded Monday when a medical examination revealed that a man injured two weeks ago died as result of injuries suffered in an auto mishap, police said. Twenty-six were killed in a similar period of last year.

The latest traffic victim, Russell Bowles, 35, was one of three persons sleeping on the front porch of a home at 1485 Marietta Rd., NW, on the night of Aug. 1. Ptl. E. P. Camp and B. T. Williams said an auto driver lost control of his machine and struck the porch, injuring the three.

Bowles died Saturday, officers said, and an autopsy Monday revealed that death resulted from injuries received in the mishap.

Dimes Campaign Leaders Urge Quick Response

Leaders of the emergency March of Dimes campaign here Monday urged those who receive solicitation letters to "send back their donation on the day the appeal is received, if possible, because the needs are immediate."

Some 165,000 letters of appeal have been mailed to Fulton County residents—and about 25,000 are slated to go out in DeKalb County next week.

Aldermen Give Okay To Merchandise Mart

The Board of Aldermen Monday set the stage for erection of a long-sought $10,000,000 merchandise mart on a 23-acre tract off Stewart Avenue, SW, and took final action to authorize sale of a $10,000,000 bond issue voted July 14.

Following considerable controversy and some scattered opposition, members of the Fourth Ward delegation agreed to permit reasoning to allow the Southwest Exhibit Bldg., Inc., to construct the merchandise mart. The tract is located 438 feet south of Deckner Ave.

Charles R. Massell is vice president of the sponsoring company. A total of 130,000 feet of exhibit space would be provided along with ample parking.

Passage of an ordinance to issue the $10,000,000 in bonds and to regulate the form of the bonds and the printing was the final action needed before the sale takes place at noon Aug. 31, Finance Committee Chairman Ralph Hule said.

In another action, the aldermen voted to pay $607.22 to Thomas J. Crittenden, Negro, who was shot accidentally by a city policeman. Crittenden was injured June 19 when Police Officer J. F. Johnson fired at a law violator and accidentally struck Crittenden.

Aldermen Milton Farris and Douglas Wood indicated they will seek to strip Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins of authority to regulate vehicular speeds and parking on a trial basis at the next session of the Board of Aldermen. Farris questioned Police Committee Chairman Ed A. Giliam concerning Bevins' custom of placing certain regulations into effect on a trial basis and later seeking aldermanic board approval if the trial works.

OTHER ACTIONS

The board also:

1. Agreed to maintain Marietta boulevard from Marietta street to Bolton.
2. Asked property owners not to install unsightly fire escapes over sidewalks and streets in an area bounded by Baker, Ivy, Spring and Thurmond streets, and Central and Trinity avenues.
3. Sent to the Traffic Commission a proposal to erect a traffic signal light at Piedmont road and East Wesley road.

4. Accepted $21,563 from the Atlanta Gas Light Co. as the second quarter, 1954, payment of franchise taxes, and agreed to permit United Hospital Service Assn. to write group insurance for city employees for the next year.

Kelley Urges Jury Action On Liquor

The Fulton County Grand Jury is expected to continue its investigation of the county's "liquor situation" Tuesday and Criminal Court Sol. John I. Kelley said he hopes the jury will take "drastic steps" to eliminate the illegal sale of liquor and mixed drinks.

Jury investigation into the issuing of liquor licenses was signalled Friday when Jury Foreman Edgar Schukraft said the jury had "done its part in ridding the county of slot machines" and had begun a study of liquor traffic.

Kelley said he is "heartily in accord" with such a movement and emphasized that respect for liquor laws "is just as important as the elimination of slot machines."

The solicitor said he hopes the jury will investigate Atlanta's "$1,000 so-called pouring license," and investigate the character of anyone permitted to sell liquor "in any fashion" in Fulton County.

Commending the jury's action on slots, Kelley said he feels the people are "fortunate to have a grand jury like that now in session" and said he believes the public approves of what the jury and its foreman have done.

Candler Accuses His Foes Of 'Malicious Political Lies'

DeKalb County Commissioner Scott Candler Monday accused opponents of his administration of spreading "malicious political lies" against him in his bid for reelection.

The incumbent did not refer directly to either of his opponents, but his declaration came right after Wheat Williams, one of the commission candidates, denied "fibbing" about the commissioner's record.

"I haven't said anybody 'fibbed,'" Candler said. "I have said they lied."

Candler, Williams and William G. McRae, the third candidate, spoke to the North DeKalb Kiwanis Club.

McRae spoke first, charging that Candler had failed to obey the law in administering county affairs. He said the incumbent "usurped" the powers of a water system advisory board. He offered $500 to anyone, "including Mr. Candler," who could show him a complete annual county audit he said was required by law.

Williams, the second speaker, said he had included revenue certificates as well as county bonds in his estimate of how much the people of DeKalb owe.

Candler disagreed, saying the Supreme Court had ruled that revenue certificates did not constitute a public debt. Candler also said a rumor that he had already sold one million dollars in hospital bonds and had used the money was false.

ONLY SHRINKAGE IN WASHABLE WOOLENS IS IN UPKEEP COST
Mrs. James L. Hart and Daughter, Jeter, Model Washable Wool Outfits

Wash Wools Can Shrink Up-Keep

By JEAN DIETRICH
Life really is getting softer and softer.

Now it's wool you can scrub in a tub.

It has been around a couple of seasons in plain colors, but this year it's worth getting steamed up about—though the fabric never needs the steam.

Plaids, checks and tweeds in bright tones and muted are here in time for girls making their own clothes for school and office.

WON'T STRETCH

Washable wool contains nylon which gives it stability. You can wash it without giving a thought to the temperature of the water and it won't stretch, shrink or mat.

The process that makes wool washable was invented and tried first by an Atlanta company.

Fall outfits of washable wool made from standard dress patterns will be modeled today, tomorrow and Thursday in three daily shows at a local department store.

EASY ON BUDGET

There is, however, one kind of stretch connected with washable wooleens and that's financial. Even if you pay someone to make your clothes you save money on cleaning costs.

Whether that makes life softer, you can decide.

Leaving clothes at the cleaner might be easier than sloshing a dress in suds. But you might get richer faster using the sloshing method.

Washable woollen fabric is available in Atlanta. For shopping information call WA. 5950, ext. 391.

Art? Just Hiding Hole

NEW YORK, Aug. 16 (AP)—It has become so fashionable to hang original paintings on living room walls that a lot of people are renting pictures or even buying them on the installment plan, an art librarian said today.

Many persons who occupy mansion-sized apartments on exclusive Fifth and Park avenues are renting paintings by such masters as Degas, Roualt, Utrillo, Monet and Mary Cassatt, she said.

An inmate of a Massachusetts prison borrows paintings so he can give himself art lessons.

USED TIPS

A New York waitress has bought five paintings with the money she has collected in tips.

Psychiatrists rent pictures to soothe their patients and one old master has been leased to an embassy in Washington.

Mrs. Ruth Butler's New York circulating library of paintings is the source of pictures rented also to business firms, lawyers and motion picture moguls who want to impress visitors. They pay $5 to $30 a month to keep in the artistic swing, and when they get tired of a painting, they can return it and change it for another.

"The majority of my people are in the social register," said Mrs. Butler, the wife of a successful broker. "They live up Fifth Avenue and down Park."

TOO FAR

Among them are young men in minor positions who want to live with nice things, theatrical people and those who just want

Pops Program Goes Outdoors

There seems to be no limit to the amount of city-sponsored fun you can have under the stars in Atlanta . . . and I'm not talking about the City Council action in allowing courting in Piedmont Park either.

At the moment I'm thinking about more organized entertainment than that. The Theater-Under-the-Stars closed last week, mourned by all who like the lively arts, but the big amphitheater at Chastain Park is not ready to go back to bitter weed and July flies—not by a long shot.

The "Pops" concert has moved out of doors!

You know the Pops. If you haven't been in that vast throng who start gathering at the Fox right after church on Sunday to hear Albert Coleman and his orchestra and a roster of important local and visiting singing stars in a free concert, you've missed a great thrill. And about the only way to make it up this season is next Friday night when the Pops orchestra will be presented for the last time this season out at the park.

This particular concert has a sponsor, other than the city—the Coca-Cola Co.—but it's still free to the public, which is the important thing.

The program includes a lot of local favorites—Bob Van Camp as master of ceremonies; Barbara Nunn Howell and Robert Moulson as soloists—with a sort of review of the numbers which were the season's hits downtown at the Fox.

Pictures and stories about the days when this century was young usually include a sequence involving a band concert in the park. A group of mustachioed musicians in striped blazers are usually shown tooting brassily away while families gather in the cool of the afternoon on the green to listen to the music and young lovers promenade about slowly and circumspectly.

That always seemed to me to be a mighty pleasant custom, not replaced to my entire satisfaction by radio, television or the movies. There's a neighborly, friendly quality about these city sponsored music events. You see old friends from other sections of town—people you haven't seen in years. At intermission there are more reunion sessions going on around the amphitheater as families and friends stroll together toward the four or five drink stands.

The whole atmosphere is attractive and I think it's very pleasant that in our town the city fathers are not entirely concerned with breaking up slot machines and maintaining an adequate sewer system but are interested besides in our cultural happiness and well-being.

Fifty high school band players, considered the best in the brass section, have been recruited by Mr. Coleman to play at this concert and will appear in their respective school band uniforms. This will add to the neighborhood quality of the concert. The performance will of a surety be big time but I hope these events will maintain for a spell the traditional country-town feeling for which Atlanta is famous.

to learn about art.

"One woman just wanted a painting to cover a hole in the wall over her mantel caused when a heavy mirror fell off.

"Some people want to be chichi and rent paintings for parties. That's going a little bit too far, I think."

Mrs. Butler started the library with her sister about nine years ago. Their father, H. Leonard Simmons, had amassed a tremendous number of paintings during 60 years of collecting.

Mrs. Butler said, "He was mad about painting."

So "mad," in fact, she said, that he collected hundreds and hundreds of paintings. There are 1,800 in the circulating library alone.

Hobby Gardeners To Meet Tuesday

Members of the Hobby Gardeners' Club will entertain members of their families at a picnic Tuesday at Adams Park. The group meets at 6:30 p.m. at Grill No. 2.

Mrs. E. C. Thomas and Mrs. C. S. LeVake are in charge of the event.

Garden Just Made for Jack-in-the-Beanstalk

By YOLANDE GWIN

The food situation has Mrs. William Alexander Sr. going around in circles.

"I planted nearly everything in circles because it is easier to water," she says. "The result has been the most wonderful crop I've ever had despite the drought. In fact I haven't had to buy any vegetables all year."

Mrs. Alexander's garden at her home on Sandtown road is small. The yield is proof that a small area can produce a lot.

CAN BE SMALL PLACE

"You don't have to have a big place nor a farm in the country to raise vegetables and fruits. I've had nearly five bushels of tomatoes. They were large ones too, weighed a pound."

Mrs. Alexander says that she planted running tomato plants. "I put them out in circles, just like my beans, around a pole so that they could have a climbing support. It seemed to work like magic. The circle is approximately six feet in size."

The gardener's beans have grown on a 12-foot pole. What her family and the neighbors haven't eaten this summer, are being canned for the Alexander pantry.

Watering has been a problem with all gardeners this year, but Mrs. Alexander has had good results by giving everything a good drink about every three days. Her tomato crop has thrived on a diet of commercial fertilizer and compost.

WIDE SELECTION

In addition to the beans and tomatoes, Mrs. Alexander has okra, asparagus, onions, squash, parsley, peppers, strawberries and lettuce.

The Alexander garden has many fruit trees, a grape arbor and a back fence covered with boysen berries.

"I have been making preserves and jellies this summer, too," she says, "and of course, all the fruits and berries make wonderful pies and other desserts."

"I do all my work in the morning before breakfast when it's cool. It doesn't take much time. Size of the garden? About 90x75 feet."

Flower Show Plans Announced

For the second year, flowers will go on display in the aisles of the Bank of Georgia at Five Points on Friday, September 24.

The event will be the fall flower show sponsored by the bank, and will be held from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. Mrs. C. T. Greer will serve as chairman, according to Joseph E. Birnie, bank president.

Members of the Flower Arrangers Club of Georgia will have entries on an exhibition basis in Class 1 for "Fall Trends." In addition, thirty garden clubs in the city have been invited to enter arrangements on a competitive basis in the five other classes.

These include Leaf Elves, Flower of Four Seasons, Blaze of Beauty, Nature's Kaleidoscope, and Summer Meets Fall. Bank officials will invite a different group of garden clubs to compete in the show each year.

Pancakes Furnish Double For Dinner Dessert Treat

By JEANNE HIGGINS

A word to the wives is sufficient. There's a brand-new idea circulating for making pancakes, twice as high and twice as light, from biscuit mix. With the texture of chifon cakes, this revolutionized flap-jack doubles as a breakfast treat and a delightful dessert.

Giddle cakes are simple to make, because they contain so few ingredients. They are exciting to serve, since their variations are so numerous. Follow a standard recipe, mix in liquid only until dry ingredients are moistened and start baking when a drop of water dances on the grill.

With syrup for breakfast or with fruit and whipped cream for dessert, puffed pancakes are a delicacy that are ever available as near as the jar or box of biscuit mix.

Roll them around sausages, or sprinkle with grated orange rind and sugar for a surprise.

PUFF PANCAKES

- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 2½ cups biscuit mix
- 2 tsp. sugar
- ¾ cup salad oil or melted shortening
- 1. Beat eggs with hand beater or at electric mixer speed number 10 for five minutes. 2. Blend in milk at speed number one. 3. Add biscuit mix and sugar. 4. Blend at speed one only until dry ingredients are thoroughly dampened. 5. Mix in oil. 6. Spoon onto medium-hot ungreased griddle. 7. When puffed up, and bubbles begin to break, cook on other side. 8. Serve with syrup or as dessert with warm fruit, such as strawberries, blueberries, peaches or applesauce and whipped cream. Makes about 15 to 20.

Fashion Hits 'Junior Set'

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—The growing trend toward fine plumage for the U.S. male has spread to the junior set this fall.

When September school bells start ringing, small boys will go back to classrooms dressed to the teeth in fancy weskits, sports coats and handsome slacks just like Dad's.

At least that's what the boys' apparel specialists are saying.

STILL FAITHFUL

Maybe there will be some small Huck Finns and Tom Sawyers who will cling to their beloved jeans and Western shirts.

In fact there undoubtedly will be quite a few. But for any dress-up occasion even these young die-hards probably will be equipped with the new "dandy" clothes.

Sports coats in colorful tweeds are tops with the younger set, as are those swank flannel blazers with crests on the breast pocket.

GAY COLORS

Top colors for the grade-school gang include such hues as charcoal, spice, cork, Palomino, plum and military blue.

Slacks may be flannel, gabardine or worsted, usually in a different color from the coat.

But the peacock trend is most evident in the fancy vests these young men about school will be sporting. They range from Tattersall and clan plaids to vivid corduroys, suedes and even brocades (the latter for dress-up wear).

It's said that the boys even will wear white shirts and ties this fall without being forced to—a prediction probably difficult for most mothers to believe.

Miss Rogers To Marry

EASTMAN, Aug. 16—Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Rogers announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Aline Rogers, to Jack Mason Timbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Timbrook of Columbus, Ind.

The bride-elect received a B. S. degree in home economics from Berry Schools in Rome. She is now employed as dietitian at the City Hospital in Columbus.

Mr. Timbrook attended Indiana University and the University of Houston, Tex., where he belonged to the Delta Theta fraternity.

His marriage to Miss Rogers will take place Sept. 5 at St. Luke Methodist Church in Columbus.

Your Stars Today

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

You may be feeling your oats this week, but better hold back expansion until after next June when everything can open up for you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You have green light for two days so moves are up to you. Romance, children, creative efforts favored.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Withdraw somewhat. Those in your environment strongly dominate and you are not in position to win now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Keep an eye alert as you travel around or talk with people. There could be trouble in neighborhood.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Could be a big deal in the works with financial gains. Don't fumble as this is real opportunity.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). This could be the peak of a big change through travel, important contracts. Don't grab all the limelight.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Hope you didn't stir up any hidden enmity. Things breaking out but your turn to talk not until next week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Best to be on your best diplomatic behavior all around, especially with groups, important and ambitious friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). You are not in best position to win out over the big shots so hold your own quietly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). There are some very big ideas being presented. It is up to you to stretch your mind and benefit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Probably some questions of re-organizing security funds must be decided this week. Discuss at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Some stiff competition to face all week so if you can't "lick 'em, join 'em." Write, telephone.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Maybe a new method of working will revolutionize your job. Give fully of energies to accomplish.

MISS UNDERWOOD

Miss Elizabeth Underwood's engagement to Paul Heard Harbin, son of Mrs. Ruth Harbin and the late C. R. Harbin, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Underwood, the wedding to take place Aug. 28 in the parlor of the Kirkwood Baptist Church. After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in Carrollton where they will continue their studies at West Georgia College. Mr. Harbin served two years with the Navy before enrolling there.

Furnishing Tips

RALEIGH, Aug. 16 (AP)—Pauline Gordon, housing specialist at North Carolina State College, says pictures should add meaning to a home and "harmonize" with the other furnishings. She doesn't recommend the modernistic, abstract paintings either for decoration or education.

Study a book of color reprints of the old masters, she recommends if you want to acquire a taste for art. Not a word about modernism.

Time for Watering

Just because the season is getting late, don't ignore watering the gardens. Late afternoon and evening is preferable to provide thorough soakings of everything except the rose beds. Don't water them after mid-afternoon.

Davies Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. Davies Jr. announce the birth of a son, Gary Foster, on Saturday, Mrs. Davies is the former Edith Fannin.

Clough Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Clough announce the birth of a son, James Erwin, on Wednesday, Mrs. Clough is the former Lois Rowe of Lumber City.

Children Respect Authority

By MARCIA WINN

The woman, a weeping small boy at her heels," told the swimming instructor, "Johnny doesn't want to take a lesson today." "Why not?" asked the instructor, a man. "He's afraid," his mother whispered. "They all start out afraid," the instructor said shortly. "Go undress him." "No," the mother said fearfully, "he's afraid."

The instructor looked at her in surprise, shrugged his shoulders, and walked away.

It wasn't the child's first lesson. It was his fourth, or it would have been had his mother insisted. She didn't. She was "helpless." Somewhere she had lost authority in her home.

A little later one of the watching mothers stopped the instructor as he walked past the spectators' bench. "Look at my son," she said, indicating a wiry wisp crouched beside the pool. "He's blue with cold." "The water is 85," the instructor said. "But he's shaking," she retorted. "He's afraid," the instructor said. "He'll get over it. Give him a chance."

HE SWIMS

A few minutes later he went over to the shaking one. "Put on these," he said, handing him a pair of water wings, "and get in the water. Then swim with them." As the boy swam, the instructor shouted advice, correcting his stroke, correcting his kick, urging him on. Back and forth across the pool the boy went, time and again, before being told to climb out. "Good," the instructor said. "Now get back in and swim without the wings."

If the boy was afraid, he didn't show it. For half an hour he had seen other children do just as he was doing. In he went. He spluttered, he gasped, but he was swimming.

Twice he swam the width of the pool. He climbed out smiling. "Afraid?" asked the instructor. The boy shook his head. He had won. He had been forced to. Turning toward his mother, he waved triumphantly.

AUTHORITY WORKS

We cite this because back and forth during this summer course for the very young the attendant mothers have argued the merits of the instructor's technique.

Again and again a mother will say, "He's too stern." She will add, "Why can't he speak gently?" the implication being, "My baby is too sweet to be commanded to do anything. He must be entreated, coaxed, bribed."

Yet these were the same mothers who earlier had admitted that they could not, by hook or crook, persuade their darlings to put their feet in the water. What they fearfully dubbed "sternness" was steady, unyielding authority.

This is the average child respects wholeheartedly. In the swimming class those who did not were not scolded or harassed or threatened. They were merely ignored.

Couple's Vows Are Announced

Mrs. Opal Douglas Jackson announces the marriage of her sister, Mrs. Glen Douglas, to Langston Hill Davis of Atlanta, with the Rev. Rembert Sisson officiating in the presence of a few close friends of the couple.

Mrs. Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Frey of Carbondale, Ill., is associated with Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia.

Mr. Davis is the son of Mrs. Hill Davis and the late Mr. Davis. He is associated with Simmons Manufacturing Co. He and his bride will reside in Decatur.

PLAYROOM for teenagers and adults is colorful, charming and easy to clean. Room takes tone and color from the barnyard red wallpaper on the left wall, featuring lively crowing roosters etched in shades of deep red, light green and black. The plain wall has textured wallpaper with a look of loosely woven fabric. Black is repeated in the tile topped end table of black and white. Sturdy sofa has white plastic covering and cleans with a few wipes with damp cloth. Sofa pillow is of washable fabric in shades of light and dark greens, white and black, colors blending with wrought iron fish designs on the wall above.

Couple Weds In Church Ceremony

An alfresco reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Joe T. Acker in their garden followed the marriage of Miss Naomi Whittemore to Richard Bell, son of Mrs. Frank Bell and the late Mr. Bell of Decatur, which was solemnized Saturday at the Decatur Presbyterian Church.

Dr. J. Davidson Phillips officiated. John C. Curlee Sr. of Sylacauga, Ala., gave the bride in marriage, and Mrs. Joe Acker was her matron of honor.

The bridesmaids included Miss Ann Vilbig of Dallas, Texas, Mrs. Glynda Drawhorn of Sylacauga, and Mrs. Margaret Bloodworth, sister of the bridegroom.

Mr. Bell chose William P. Dent of St. Matthews, S.C., as his best man. His groomsmen were Robert G. Hughes of Tate, John C. Curlee Jr. of Atlanta, and Paul G. Turner of Decatur.

William McLaughlin, Robert Peacock, E. T. Hendon, Allan Forsythe of Chicago, Jack Pirkle and Stanley Bishop ushered.

Mrs. Frank Bell Jr. kept the bride's book, and Mrs. Paul Turner cut the wedding cake.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Decatur.

Miss Brown Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. James Paul Brown of Meansville announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Brown, to Thomas Robert Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Taylor of Avondale Estates.

The wedding will take place Aug. 28 at Druid Hills Presbyterian Church.

Miss Brown attended the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia. She is employed by Sinclair Refining Co. of Atlanta.

Mr. Taylor is a member of the Beta Theta fraternity at Emory University.

New Series Tells Stories Of Badmen

Stories of the Century, a new series based on official newspaper files and records presenting accurate stories of historic personalities at the colorful turn of the century, will debut as a regular weekly presentation on WSB-TV Tuesday at 10:30 p.m.

Hollywood's Jim Davis will be the central figure portraying Matt Clark, railroad detective, with lovely Mary Castle as Clark's undercover agent.

Supporting casts in the series will include such names as Marie Windsor, Richard Jaeckel, Louise Beavers, Richard Travis, Don Haggerty, Jean Parker, Lyle Talbot and Bruce Bennett.

Stories of the Century is produced by Studio City TV Productions, Inc., utilizing the facilities of Republic Studios. Through the affiliation with Republic, Studio City TV Productions, Inc., has been able to use the creative producers, directors, writers and stars, craftsmen and artists who are household words.

The initial presentation in the new series is "Frank and Jesse James" with Lee Van Cleef cast as the infamous Jesse.

Stories of the Century will be sponsored on WSB-TV by the Atlanta Beverage Co. for Budweiser.

Reagan stars in War Film

Ronald Reagan makes one of his infrequent television appearances at 8:30 p.m. on WSB-TV when he stars in "Beneath These Waters," story of a destroyer in World War II.

Reagan portrays Lt. Cmdr. William Masterson, new skipper of the U.S. Destroyer Barksdale, about to join the battle of Guadalcanal. Chief Boatswain's Mate Morton (Peter Whitney), who carries much weight with the crew, alone refuses to accept the new skipper. During the Guadalcanal fighting, a torpedo is sighted speeding for a direct hit on a cruiser.

Without a moment's hesitation, Masterson orders full speed ahead and deliberately intercepts the torpedo with the destroyer's bow. He wins respect of the entire crew, except for Morton, who insinuates the skipper disabled the ship in order that he can return home to his wife.

Moore's Prediction a Kayo, Too

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Dear Boss—Archie Moore's letter to you, in which he predicted he'd kayo Harold Johnson, sometime after the tenth round, certainly verified.

The 37-year-old Moore is one of the miracle athletes of our generation. On the side, he spends all of his time raising hospital funds for underprivileged children, making him a complete champ. . . . Boris Karloff rebuffed British autograph fans: "I'm sick of signing them."

Julius Boros' right leg in a cast. While fishing, the golf champ slipped on the roots of a tree, snapped the small bone above his right ankle. . . . Gregory Peck dropped a bundle in his first try for Texas oil. . . . Jeannette Ederis sporting her engagement rock from Winston Rockefeller.

Mrs. Clement Attlee, out of hospital, joins him in Singapore, Sept. 6.

Monroe Gets Big Hand at First Show

Vaughn Monroe, NBC television star and RCA-Victor's biggest current recording sensation, opened a week's engagement at the Steak Ranch here Monday night. The near-capacity audience was one of the most enthusiastic we've seen in Atlanta.

Displaying a warm informal manner, the handsome baritone, who has played here at theaters and at the auditorium with his band, sang a dozen of the top tunes he has recorded, such as "Just One of Those Things," "Racing With the Moon," "Tenderly" and "Dance, Ballerina, Dance." He climaxed the night's appearance with "They Were Doing the Mambo."

Monroe, who gave up his band several years ago, was accompanied by Ken Harris and his band which has been playing for dancing at the Ranch for several weeks. Featured as an opener in the show was Virginia Ayers, shapely Miami dancing star.

Monroe will appear at the Ranch for two shows nightly throughout this week.

Reagan Stars In War Film

Ronald Reagan makes one of his infrequent television appearances at 8:30 p.m. on WSB-TV when he stars in "Beneath These Waters," story of a destroyer in World War II.

Reagan portrays Lt. Cmdr. William Masterson, new skipper of the U.S. Destroyer Barksdale, about to join the battle of Guadalcanal. Chief Boatswain's Mate Morton (Peter Whitney), who carries much weight with the crew, alone refuses to accept the new skipper. During the Guadalcanal fighting, a torpedo is sighted speeding for a direct hit on a cruiser.

Without a moment's hesitation, Masterson orders full speed ahead and deliberately intercepts the torpedo with the destroyer's bow. He wins respect of the entire crew, except for Morton, who insinuates the skipper disabled the ship in order that he can return home to his wife.

TV's Stop the Music To Return on Sept. 7
Atlanta's Bert Parks will be back in a familiar role on television this fall. Bert will again be master of ceremonies on the guessing game, Stop the Music, when that program is seen at 10:30 p.m. on WLW-A, beginning Sept. 7.

Once again the "Mystery Melody," with its jackpot of prizes, will highlight the popular TV quiz, which was featured on radio before the advent of video.

40 Pct. of Taxes
Of City, County
Collected to Date

Approximately $6,000,000, or roughly 40 per cent of Atlanta and Fulton County taxes have been collected thus far by the joint city-county tax office, Tax Commissioner T. Earl Suttles said Monday.

Suttles estimated approximately 60 per cent of all taxpayers have made full or partial payment on their taxes, and that some 28 per cent have paid in full.

Atlanta's tax digest this year is estimated at $13,000,000, of which Suttles estimates almost $3,875,000 has been collected. The county digest should total about $10,000,000, he said, with approximately $2,800,000 of this already collected.

A Rhyme a Day

"Traffic departments again issue warnings not to pick up strangers on the highway, regardless of how innocent they may appear."—Road-map note.

It makes a man feel pretty cheap... to drive along the highway... and see some poor pedestrian creep... along, who's "going my way"... and fail to offer him a ride... toward his destination... and yet a lot of men have died... who felt this obligation.

Since charity begins at home... it seems a man should stay there... I mean, he shouldn't start to roam... if he can't pay his way there... and though that seems a selfish view... there always is the danger... he may get there instead of you... if you pick up a stranger.

He may look like a care-free lad... who's looking for enjoyment... for some poor chap whose luck's so bad... he cannot find employment... or sometimes it's the female kind... who wants to ride beside you... and if you do it, you are blind... and need someone to guide you.

I guess it is a big mistake... to be too generous-hearted... and if you are you may awake... somewhere you never started.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 spade 2 hearts North Double Pass
 2 spades Pass 3 spades Pass
 4 spades Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: King of hearts.

Bargain hunting on the part of South proved costly in the play of today's game contract. The urge to win a trick too cheaply led declarer down the path to ruin.

The bidding elicited rather more discussion than the play. Considering vulnerability and the burden of carrying so many of the adverse suit, West's overcall was not a well calculated risk. North's double was with feeling and with the best defense would have yielded at least a two trick set. But South did not see fit to stand for it and rebid his six card suit. This act infuriated North but not to such an extent as to neglect to offer South a raise, which South duly carried on to game. North's indictment of his partner was not well founded. South was quite justified in refusing to stand for the double, holding a six card suit of his own, a singleton of the adverse suit and a hand of mediocre defensive strength.

Experience has shown that a best results will in the long run be attained by refusal to leave a double in, when short in the suit doubled and having less than three very fast tricks.

West opened the king of hearts and South ruffed the continuation of the suit. He then cashed the two top diamonds and ruffed the third round of the suit with dummy's jack. This was a bit of economy which was to cost the declarer dearly.

The ace of spades was then laid down and in order to draw trumps declarer ruffed himself in with a heart. However, the king of spades brought bad news. When East showed out West was marked with as many trumps as South and could not be prevented from scoring his seven of spades.

It is true that even after ruffing with the jack of spades declarer could have brought the hand home by a rather abnormal line of play. He could cash one high club in dummy and then ruff himself in with a heart. Then comes another club. If West uses one of his trumps he is merely ruffing away a loser. If West discards North cashes the high club which produces trick number 10.

However, the simplest and most logical way to bring home the hand is for South to ruff the third round of diamonds with the ace of spades and overtake the jack with the king, in order to force out the adverse queen. In this fashion declarer registers five spade tricks, two diamonds, two clubs and a ruff in dummy for a total of 10.

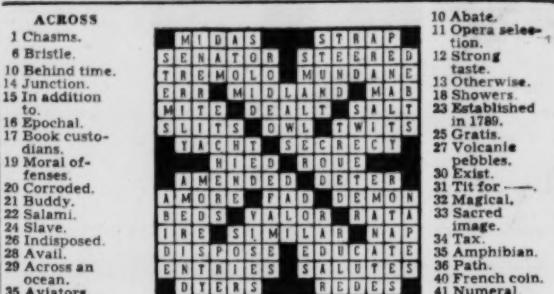

"His language gets a little rough at times, reverend!"

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Girls Told To Avoid Dating Ineligible Men

Sarah M., 28, is an office secretary. "Dr. Crane, I am at my wits end," she said and began to cry.

"A fellow in our firm began to date me regularly. After the first few times we had been out together, he told me he was married.

"So I told him I couldn't go out with him. But he coaxed and said his wife was away part of the time at her folks, so he was lonely.

"Well, I was lonely, too, so finally I started going with him again. Besides, he said he loved me, and his wife didn't understand him.

"He said we'd get married some day and insisted on staying at my apartment several times.

"But, oh, Dr. Crane, now I find I am going to have a baby and he has deserted me and gone back to his wife."

LOOK AHEAD

The Bible says: "Look not on the wine while it is red!"

That means, don't play with fire and tantalize yourself toying with forbidden things.

Girls, if a man is married, don't go out with him, despite his pleading about a wife who doesn't understand him.

And quit falling victim to the fallacy that you must be married to be happy. You can be happy unmarried, as many wonderful people have demonstrated.

Indeed, many married women are miserable, while lots of gracious unmarried folks are popular and happy.

So look ahead, and cut off any dangerous personal ties that will grow and grow with repetition.

"Cobwebs become cables by repetition" runs an old proverb.

Break the initial cobweb when it is wrong, instead of toying and playing along with it till it becomes a cable size.

INTOXICATION

Kisses and physical caresses can become so intoxicating with repetition until you finally become drunk.

A sex drunkard may then act just as stupidly as a whisky drunkard. So the only way to retain a sober, intelligent outlook is to stay aloof from such dangerous intoxicants even from the outset.

If you girls go around with single men of good character, and of eligible qualifications, then your many happy experiences together will turn your "cobweb" of casual attraction into a real "cable" of true love.

But at the start, while you can view things soberly and impartially, be sure you pick wisely. Don't run around with married men or even single fellows who are obviously unfit for husbands.

To help you rate your "date," send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts." Address your request to me in care of The Constitution, enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus a dime.

Hoover Unit To Study U.S. Realty Holdings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16 (AP)—The Hoover Commission on Government Organization has set up a task force to study federal real estate holding.

Former President Hoover said the group's major aim will be to develop "sound business procedures" for managing, developing, planning and buying such property. Hoover said it is important to hold the government's realty investments "to an economic minimum."

Chairman of the new group is John R. Lotz of New York City, former chairman of Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. and of Overseas Consultants, Inc. Ben P. Gale, a former Cleveland industrial realtor, will be director of the task force staff.

TOO MUCH EXPERIENCE

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A 26-year-old man, captured inside a Fort Worth tavern, learned there are certain hazards to the profession he chose. As he explained to police: "I'm just tired of working for a living and wanted to get some burglary experience in here."

Undulant Fever Causes Discussed

Brucellosis (undulant fever) is primarily a disease of animals. Humans develop the malady when they drink the milk or handle the flesh of infected cattle, pigs, goats and sheep. It is logical to assume that if we can eliminate the disease in animals, it will disappear in humans.

Unpasteurized milk has received too much blame in the past; actually only 25 per cent of all victims acquire brucellosis in this manner. The remainder result from handling contaminated meat or taking care of the infected animal. For this reason, brucellosis is common among farmers, livestock producers, veterinarians, butchers and employees of packing plants.

Approximately three weeks elapse between making the contact with the micro-organisms and the onset of symptoms. In more than half the cases, the individual develops fever, weakness, sweating, pains and aches. These early manifestations resemble flu and for the first week or 10 days the condition often is treated as flu.

In addition, the victim suffers from headache, nervousness, loss of appetite, depression, and insomnia. When there is involvement of the joints the physician thinks of arthritis, rheumatism or rheumatic fever. But the diagnosis is clinched when blood and skin tests are made. There are many remedies but the antibiotics and sulfonamides work best.

Brucellosis is more disabling than serious, particularly when the ailment lasts longer than a year. It then goes into the chronic phase and the patient becomes too weak to perform ordinary tasks. Nervousness, mental depression and sexual impotence are common. The disease ultimately burns itself out and complete recovery is the rule. The death rate varies from 1 to 2 per cent. The number of cases in humans is remarkably small, however, considering the incidence of the disease in animals.
